

Treatment of Stage I-III Periodontitis

The EFP S3 Level Clinical Practice Guideline

Where does the need for this Guideline come from?

- Implementation of the new classification of periodontitis should facilitate the use of appropriate preventive and therapeutic interventions, depending on the stage and grade of the disease. The application of this S3 Level Clinical Practice Guideline will allow clinicians to use evidence-based approaches in the management of stage I-III periodontitis.

What do patients need to know?

- An essential prerequisite to therapy is to inform the patient of the diagnosis, including causes of the condition, risk factors, treatment alternatives and expected risks and benefits including in particular regarding consequences of reduced treatment.
- This discussion should be followed by agreement on a personalised care plan.
- The plan might need to be modified during the treatment journey, depending on patient preferences, clinical findings and changes in overall health.

How does evidence from the guideline?

Strong recommendation: Recommendation in favor of a particular strategy of treatment or specific procedure.

Conditional recommendation: Open recommendation in which the clinician is responsible for the final choice of a particular strategy of treatment or specific procedure based on specific patient characteristics.

Uncertain recommendation: For whom clarification further research is needed.

Not a recommendation: Recommendation against a particular strategy of treatment or specific procedure.
