Uncommon Measures National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Testing and Assessment, Committee on Equivalency and Linkage of Educational Tests, 1998-11-30 The issues surrounding the comparability of various tests used to assess performance in schools received broad public attention during congressional debate over the Voluntary National Tests proposed by President Clinton in his 1997 State of the Union Address Proponents of Voluntary National Tests argue that there is no widely understood challenging benchmark of individual student performance in 4th grade reading and 8th grade mathematics thus the need for a new test Opponents argue that a statistical linkage among tests already used by states and districts might provide the sort of comparability called for by the president s proposal Public Law 105 78 requested that the National Research Council study whether an equivalency scale could be developed that would allow test scores from existing commercial tests and state assessments to be compared with each other and with the National Assessment of Education Progress In this book the committee reviewed research literature on the statistical and technical aspects of creating valid links between tests and how the content use and purposes of education testing in the United States influences the quality and meaning of those links The book summarizes relevant prior linkage studies and presents a picture of the diversity of state testing programs It also looks at the unique characteristics of the National Assessment of Educational Progress Uncommon Measures provides an answer to the question posed by Congress in Public Law 105 78 suggests criteria for evaluating the quality of linkages and calls for further research to determine the level of precision needed to make inferences about linked tests In arriving at its conclusions the committee acknowledged that ultimately policymakers and educators must take responsibility for determining the degree of imprecision they are willing to tolerate in testing and linking This book provides science based information with which to make those decisions Bulletin, 1958 Bulletin United States. Office of Education, 1958 Quest for Quality National School Boards Association, 1960 Research in Education, 1968-07 A Teacher Has Something to Say Dina Nwaokai-Beecham, 2006-03-02 Its true what they say about a teacher being on the front lines up close and personal with students from all walks of life and backgrounds Many think this line is a dangerous one with the children of today but this teacher wants you to see children as she has seen them for years as beautiful human beings who are worthy of being taught In this book you will journey through the humor emotions stress and rewards of teaching children in an inner city school district You will laugh You may cry but most importantly you will see these children as precious darlings just as the author did as she went through the experience of teaching This book is a must read for new teachers potential teachers parents students and anyone who believes in the universal love of children Four college city districts National School Boards Association, 1960 Equivalency and Linkage of Educational Tests National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Commission on Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on Equivalency and Linkage of Educational Tests, 1998-08-09 Hearings, Reports, Public Laws United States.
