everyone's right to an education As Miss Collins' life unfolds before you relevant social issues affecting people of color are intertwined Issues examined include economics education gender race religion and Africa's colonization from her 1851 birth in Illinois until her 1940 death in Iowa Her resourcefulness in overcoming obstacles during her 33 year commitment to missionary service in the Congo Delta Region and Angola is compelling Miss Collins' story demonstrates the difference one person can make in the lives of an unknown number of women and children some orphaned and homeless and others escaping early marriage and subservience Her leadership is evidenced when starting a girls school in the northern Angolan high plateau region years before Mary Jane McLeod Bethune initiated her school for African American girls in Florida You will be gratified to discover how this diminutive bundle of energy achieved recognition as a stalwart missionary leader teacher nurse construction manager and surrogate mother to her girls The End of Empathy John W. Compton, 2020-05-01

When polling data showed that an overwhelming 81% of white evangelicals had voted for Donald Trump in the 2016 presidential election commentators across the political spectrum were left aghast Even for a community that had been tracking further and further right for decades this support seemed decidedly out of step How after all could an amoral twice divorced businessman from New York garner such devoted admiration from the most vociferous of values voters That this same group had not a century earlier rallied national support for such progressive causes as a federal minimum wage child labor laws and civil rights made the Trump shift even harder to square In The End of Empathy John W. Compton presents a nuanced portrait of the changing values of evangelical voters over the course of the last century To explain the rise of white Protestant social concern in the latter part of the nineteenth century and its sudden demise at the end of the twentieth Compton argues that religious conviction by itself is rarely sufficient to motivate empathetic political behavior When believers do act empathetically championing reforms that transfer resources or political influence to less privileged groups within society for example it is typically because strong religious institutions have compelled them to do so Citizens throughout the previous century had sought membership in churches as a means of ensuring upward mobility but a deterioration of mainline Protestant authority that started in the 1960s led large groups of white suburbanites to shift away from the mainline Protestant churches There to pick up the slack were larger evangelical congregations with conservative leaders who discouraged attempts by the government to promote a more equitable distribution of wealth and political authority That shift Compton argues explains the larger revolution in white Protestantism that brought us to this political moment Metaphor, Metonymy and Lexicogenesis Andrew Goatly, 2024-11-15

This book investigates the interaction between new English lexis and metaphor metonymy figures meticulously defined and contrasted in terms of similarity contiguity It advances three main hypotheses i derived lexis is more likely to be figurative in meaning and usage than the bases from which it is derived ii derivation obscures the figurative origins of this lexis to varying degrees depending on differing processing strategies iii lexicalisation is determined by Relevance in Sperber and Wilson's sense to the needs of a culture or its powerful interest groups where culture following Norman Fairclough is characterised as an ensemble of recognised action discourse genres This volume is distinctive in exploring the relations between grammar and metonymy and providing numerous examples of metaphorical and metonymic lexis as it reflects society s changing needs and contested ideologies The American Almanac, Year-book, Cyclopedia and Atlas ,1902
