Home economics Sacha Hepburn, 2022-08-16 Domestic service has long been one of the largest forms of urban employment across southern Africa Home economics provides the first comprehensive history of this essential sector in the decades following independence and the end of apartheid Focusing on Lusaka and drawing wider comparisons the book traces how Black workers and employers adapted existing models of domestic service as part of broader responses to changing gendered employment patterns economic decline and endemic poverty It reveals how kin based domestic service gradually displaced wage labour and how women and girl workers came to dominate kin based and waged domestic service with profound consequences for labour regulation and worker organising Theoretically innovative and empirically rich the book provides essential insights into debates about gender work and urban economies that are critical to understanding southern Africa's post colonial and post apartheid history The Decline of Marriage in Namibia Prof. Dr. Julia Pauli, 2019-01-23 In Southern Africa marriage used to be widespread and common However over the past decades marriage rates have declined significantly Julia Pauli explores the meaning of marriage when only few marry Although marriage rates have dropped sharply the value of weddings and marriages has not To marry has become an indicator of upper class status that less affluent people aspire to Using the appropriation of marriage by a rural Namibian elite as a case study the book tells the entwined stories of class formation and marriage decline in post apartheid Namibia

States-in-Waiting Lydia Walker, 2024-05-16 After the Second World War national self determination became a recognized international norm yet it only extended to former colonies Groups within postcolonial states that made alternative sovereign claims were disregarded or actively suppressed Showcasing their contested histories Lydia Walker offers a powerful counternarrative of global decolonization highlighting little known regions marginalized individuals and their hidden or lost archives She depicts the personal connections that linked disparate nationalist struggles across the globe through advocacy networks demonstrating that these advocates had their own agendas and allegiances which she argues could undermine the autonomy of the claimants they supported By foregrounding particular nationalist movements in South Asia and Southern Africa and their transnational advocacy networks States in Waiting illuminates the un endings of decolonization the unfinished and improvised ways that the state centric international system replaced empire which left certain claims of sovereignty perpetually awaiting recognition This title is also available as Open Access on Cambridge Core

The Bloomsbury Handbook of Schools and Religion Jo Fraser-Pearce, James W. Fraser, 2023-09-21 The Bloomsbury Handbook of Schools and Religion provides the first truly global scan of contemporary issues and debates around the world regarding the relationships between the state schools and religion Organized around specific contested issues from whether or not mindfulness should be practised in schools to appropriate and inappropriate religious attire in schools to long term battles about evolution sexuality and race to public funding Fraser Pearce and Fraser carefully curate chapters by leading experts exploring these matters and others in a diverse range of national settings The Bloomsbury Handbook of Schools and Religion offers a refreshingly new international perspective The International Business Environment Leslie Hamilton, Philip Webster, 2015 Explores the process of globalization and the impact this has on international business organizations The text presents a framework to analyse the economic political legal financial technological socio cultural and ecological environments thereby outlining the factors which affect the everyday business of organizations Jubuntu Larissa Denk, 2023-02-13 This study investigates the nexus between giving belonging and Jewishness in South Africa

Charitable interactions are as much manifestations of inequalities as an expression of the giving individual's desire to alleviate them. Structuring aspects like class, race, economics and post-apartheid politics are at the basis of this study. At the same time though, it is individual agency reproducing inequalities and making sense of the ambiguity of the charitable interaction. In the context of the Jewish community in South Africa, this analysis shows how the community's organisations, practices and concepts are connected to charitable giving. The author carved out three dimensions which are entangled, reinforced or at times contradict each other: Belonging, diaspora and charitable giving. Along with shared values and practices, it relates to volunteering or charitable giving connects one individual to a group while possibly excluding another from it. Expressing belonging to the Jewish collective as a diaspora community relates individuals or collectives to the triadic relationship between local diaspora group, host society and homeland and other local communities of the same diaspora.

Middle Classes in Africa Lena Kroeker, David O'Kane, Tabea Scharrer, 2018-02-19 This volume challenges the concept of the new African middle class with new theoretical and empirical insights into the changing lives in Sub-Saharan Africa. Diverse middle classes are on the rise but models of class based on experiences from other regions of the world cannot be easily transferred to the African continent. Empirical contributions drawn from a diverse range of contexts address both African histories of class formation and the political roles of the continent's middle classes and also examine the important interdependencies that cut across inter-generational, urban, rural and class divides. This thought-provoking book argues emphatically for a revision of common notions of the middle class and for the inclusion of insights from the South into the global debate on class. Middle Classes in Africa will be of interest to students and scholars across a range of disciplines as well as NGOs and policy makers with an interest in African societies.

The First Right Bradley R. Simpson, Associate Professor of History and Asian Studies, 2025-10-14 The idea of self-determination is one of the most significant in modern international politics. For more than a century, diplomats, lawyers, scholars, activists and ordinary people in every part of the globe have wrestled with its meaning and implications for decolonization, human rights, sovereignty and international order. The First Right argues that there was no one self-determination but a century-long contest between contending visions of sovereignty and rights that were as varied and changing as the nature of sovereignty itself. In this globe-spanning narrative, Simpson argues that self-determination's meaning has often emerged not just from the United Nations but from the claims of movements and peoples on the margins of international society. Powerful states, he shows, persistently rejected expansive self-determination claims, arguing that these threatened great power conflict, the dissolution of international order or the unravelling of the world economy. Pacific Island territories, indigenous peoples, regional and secessionist movements and transnational solidarity groups among others rejected the efforts of large, powerful states to define self-determination along narrow lines. Instead, international historian Bradley R. Simpson shows they offered expansive visions of economic, political and cultural sovereignty ranging far beyond the movement for decolonization with which they are often associated As they did so these movements and groups helped to vernacularize self determination as a language of social justice and rights for people around the world An ambitious work of global breadth on a key geopolitical issue The First Right transforms how we think about the making of the twentieth century world order and the place of the global South and decolonization in it Warfare and Tracking in Africa, 1952-1990 Timothy J Stapleton,2015-10-06 During the decolonization wars in East and Southern Africa tracking became increasingly valuable as a military tactic Drawing on archival research and interviews Stapleton presents a comparative study of the role of tracking in insurgency and counter insurgency across Kenya Zimbabwe and Namibia Human Rights and the Judicialisation of African Politics Peter

Brett,2018-09-18 Human Rights and the Judicialisation of African Politics shows readers how central questions in African politics have entered courtrooms over the last three decades and provides the first transnational explanation for this development The book begins with three conditions that have made judicialisation possible in Africa as a whole new corporate rights norms including the expansion of indigenous rights the proliferation of new avenues for legal proceedings and the development of new support structures enabling litigation It then studies the effects of these changes based on fieldwork in three Southern African countries Zimbabwe Namibia and Botswana Examining three recent court cases involving international law international courts and transnational NGOs it looks beyond some of international relations established models to explain when and why and legal rights can be clarified This text will be of key interest to scholars and students of African politics and human rights and more broadly to international relations and international law and justice

Developmentalism, Dependency, and the State Christopher Hope,2020-08-17 Why does Namibia s economy look the way it does today Was the reliance on raw materials for exports and on the service sector for employment an inevitability And for what reasons has the manufacturing sector the vehicle for economic development for many now high income countries throughout the 19th and 20th centuries seen its growth held back With these questions in mind this book offers an extensive analysis of industrial development and economic change in Namibia since 1900 exploring their causes trajectory vicissitudes context and politics Its focus is particularly on the motivations behind the economic decisions of the state arguing that power relations both internationally and domestically have held firm a status quo that has resisted efforts towards profound economic change This work is the first in depth economic study covering both the colonial and independence eras of Namibia s history and provides the first history of the country s manufacturing sector Democracy, Elections, and

Constitutionalism in Africa Charles M. Fombad,Nico Steytler,2021-03-18 The third wave of democracy that reached African shores at the end of the Cold War brought with it a dramatic decline from 1990 onwards in dictatorships military regimes one party governments and presidents for life Multiparty democracy was at the core of the constitutional revolutions that swept through most of Africa in those watershed years However that wave is either losing momentum or receding or being reversed in its entirety This volume examines democracy and elections in Africa a focus motivated by two concerns

First after 30 years it is important to take stock of the state of constitutional democracy on the continent. The democratic gains of the 1990s and 2000s seem to be falling by the wayside with the evidence mounting that regimes are concealing authoritarianism under the veneer of elections, doing so in an international context where populist regimes are on the rise and free and fair multiparty elections are consequently no longer a given. It is becoming a battle to protect and retain constitutional democracy. The second reason for this volume's focus on democracy and elections is that multiparty democracy is essential for the proper functioning of the state in addressing the major problems facing Africa: internal conflict, inequality, and lack of development and poor governance and corruption. The focus of this volume is thus on how competitive politics or multiparty democracy can be realized and how, through competition, such politics could lead to better policy and practice outcomes.
