Globalizing Educational Accountabilities Bob

Lingard, Wayne Martino, Goli Rezai-Rashti, Sam Sellar, 2015-07-30 Globalizing Educational Accountabilities analyzes the influence that international and national testing and accountability regimes have on educational policy reform efforts in schooling systems around the world. Tracing the evolution of those regimes with an emphasis on the OECD's PISA, it reveals the multiple effects of policy as numbers in countries with different types of government and different education systems. From the effect of Shanghai's PISA success on nations trying to compete economically to the perverse effects of linking funding to performance targets in Australia, the analysis links testing and accountability to new modes of network governance, new spatialities, and the significance of data infrastructures. This highly illustrative text offers scholars and policy makers a critical policy sociology framework for doing education policy analysis today. Teacher Researchers Jake Madden, David E. Lynch, Tina a Doe, 2015-08-13 This book is full of vignettes illustrating how professional learning can be integrated into the day to day work of schools and in doing so focus on continuous improvement enhancing teaching quality and raising student achievement. In presenting best practice exemplars to illustrate how professional learning can positively impact teaching quality and school improvement, this book will inspire each classroom teacher and school leader. It will support them in creating and sustaining a strong performance culture. The Quantified School Diego Santori, 2024-01-09 This book develops a theoretically rich analysis of quantification and subjectivity, tracing new linkages between educational policy and everyday life in schools, diving deeper into ordinary schools as they encounter and navigate quantified forms of recognition. With a focus on Chile as a critical case of neoliberal experimentation, this book investigates whether intense exposure to quantified forms of meaning and sense making in school settings could develop into metrics driven dispositions or attachments. Contemporary demands on schools for calculation, prediction, and comparison by the use of accountability tools like high stakes testing, league tables, consequential inspection ratings, and progress measures, evidence the relentless presence of quantification in teaching and learning. This book argues the importance of bridging political, sociological, and anthropological literatures together with affect and subjectivity theories to understand the complex ways in which standardisation, optimisation, automation, and surveillance crystallise into quantification based forms of intelligibility.

Reinventing the Curriculum Mark Priestley, Gert Biesta, 2013-06-20 Scotland's Curriculum for Excellence offers an example of a different approach to national curriculum development. It combines what are claimed to be the best features of top down and bottom up approaches to curriculum development and provides an indication of the broad qualities that school education should promote rather than a detailed description of curriculum content. Advocates of the approach argue that it provides central guidance for schools and maintains national standards whilst at the same time allowing schools and teachers the flexibility to take account of local needs when designing programmes of education. Reinventing the Curriculum uses Scotland's Curriculum for Excellence as a rich case study analysing the strengths and weaknesses of this approach to curriculum design and development and exploring the implications for curriculum planning and development around the
