New Worlds of Work Ulrich Jürgens,Martin Krzywdzinski,2016-04-15 New industrial centres are emerging in the so called BRIC countries Brazil Russia

India and China where large numbers of plants have been constructed in recent years creating many manufacturing jobs But what does industrial work look like in these locations Up until now much of the interest in developing country industrialization has concentrated on the poor working conditions that characterize some export oriented sectors in emerging economies most notoriously in the garment industry In contrast the concern of this book is with the modern facilities of multinational or local manufacturers that reflect aspirations for a process of industrial upgrading that might foreshadow the future for these countries The book provides an analysis of work its context and the situation of employees in plants in the BRICs focussing on three main questions What differences and common features can be ascertained in a comparison both of countries and firms in terms of workplace HR management and production systems What evidence is there for either a high road or low road developmental path in the BRICs How are corporate standards implemented in these local contexts The book addresses an academic audience as well as managers and trade unionists For the former it offers a systematic comparison of the four countries and the companies under study For the latter it offers a vivid account of challenges the companies face in the BRIC countries as well as the solutions adopted by the companies A Cumulated

Index to the Books of .. ,1900      The Vanishing American Corporation Gerald F. Davis,2016-05-02 It may be hard to believe in an era of Walmart Citizens United and the Koch brothers but corporations are on the decline The number of American companies listed on the stock market dropped by half between 1996 and 2012 In recent years we ve seen some of the most storied corporations go bankrupt General Motors Chrysler Eastman Kodak or disappear entirely Bethlehem Steel Lehman Brothers Borders Gerald Davis argues this is a root cause of the income inequality and social instability we face today Corporations were once an integral part of building the middle class He points out that in their heyday they offered millions of people lifetime employment a stable career path health insurance and retirement pensions They were like small private welfare states The businesses that are replacing them will not fill the same role For one thing they employ far fewer people the combined global workforces of Facebook Yelp Zynga LinkedIn Zillow Tableau Zulily and Box are smaller than the number of people who lost their jobs when Circuit City was liquidated in 2009 And in the sharing economy companies have no obligation to most of the people who work for them at the end of 2014 Uber had over 160 000 driver partners in the United States but recognized only about 2 000 people as actual employees Davis tracks the rise of the large American corporation and the economic social and technological developments that have led to its decline The future could see either increasing economic polarization as careers turn into jobs and jobs turn into tasks or a more democratic economy built from the grass roots It s up to us Manual de la sociologia del trabajo y de las relaciones laborales Detlev negociación colectiva la europeización de las relaciones laborales las relaciones laborales en la empresa transnacional The Political Economy of Automotive Industrialization in East Asia Richard F. Doner, Gregory W. Noble, John Ravenhill, 2021-04-21 East Asia is a powerhouse of automobile production Yet across the region national automobile industries have had strikingly different patterns of development Despite starting from equally low levels of performance and initially similar strategies countries have experienced vastly different results From Thailand's success as an assembly hub for foreign automakers and China's unexpected achievements in building its own car industry to South Korea's impressive development of an integrated industry to the Philippines persistent weakness these divergent paths offer a fascinating window into the determinants of economic growth The Political Economy of Automotive Industrialization in East Asia provides a political explanation for why development strategies and performance have been so uneven within one of the world's most important regions Utilizing interviews and original language research from multiple nations this book explains that factors such as market size and neoclassical economic policies alone cannot explain these patterns of development Richard F Doner Gregory W Noble and John Ravenhill instead highlight the significance of two sets of factors countries very different capabilities for implementing policies and the political forces that help to explain the emergence of effective institutions Through cross national analyses of China Taiwan South Korea Indonesia Malaysia the Philippines and Thailand the book sets up a clear structure for understanding industrial development and how it enables or constrains the capabilities of domestic firms Brief comparisons with Brazil Mexico and other developing countries confirm the utility of the analytic framework and demonstrate how it is superior both to accounts in mainstream economics and much of political science which fail to give sufficient emphasis to the role of public and public private institutions or provide an explanation of the political bases of those institutions In a world where auto assemblers and suppliers are facing new challenges in an ever evolving industry such as the transition to electric and autonomous vehicles this book offers a crucial perspective on the centrality of institutional capacities and political economy By tracing the divergent trajectories of seven nations The Political Economy of Automotive Industrialization in East Asia offers lessons beyond the automobile industry that illustrate the broader importance of institutions to economic growth
