Design for Learning Northrop Frye, 1962-12-15 This important book is the result of a study of school curriculum undertaken by a joint committee of the University of Toronto and the Board of Education for the City of Toronto Three sub committees dealing with English Social Science and Physical Science here present preliminary reports which indicate the need for perpetual study if the school curriculum is to be kept abreast of modern developments in each discipline Committee members responsible for the reports are themselves elementary secondary or university teachers of experience Their recommendations embracing all grades up to and including Thirteen are specific stimulating and controversial They are unanimous only in their concern that necessary changes be made and that study of the curriculum be continuous and objective The reports are prefaced by a discerning essay written by Northrop Frye Principal Frye points out that the real barriers to break down were those between the three major divisions of education the primary secondary and university levels each of which tends to become a self enclosed system congratulating itself on its virtues and blaming whatever deficiencies the educational process as a whole may have on the other systems This book will be of interest to teachers at all levels to officials responsible for policy in our public education to trustees to parents and to the increasing number of general public who care about education The Chairmen of the three committees were English Mary Campbell Parkdale Collegiate Institute Social Science C B Macpherson Department of Political Economy University of Toronto Physical Science Charlotte M Sullivan Department of Zoology University of Toronto The Editor Northrop Frye is Principal of Victoria College University of Toronto GIS Integrated Teaching on Secondary School Underachieving Students' Geography Learning Goals Soon Singh A/L Bikar Singh, 2021-06-28

Recent studies show that the number of students who select to study Geography in Malaysian secondary schools and their level of achievement in the subject has decreased The main factor is lack of motivation Over multiple decades a large and growing body of literature has indicated that ICT enhances students motivation to learn and their learning outcome The studies demonstrate that the use of ICT in teaching activities provides more fun in an authentic learning environment and increases learning autonomy interaction and collaboration It is therefore a rich opportunity for motivating students to study In addition despite an increased interest among scholars to investigate the impact of ICT integrated Geography teaching on students motivation and achievement none have investigated the effects of GIS as a new technological teaching tool on students Geography learning goals and their learning outcomes The idea for this book originated from the author s PhD study to examine the effects of GIS based instruction on secondary school student Geography learning goals and their learning outcomes This book is highly beneficial for Geography teachers to use multiple teaching methods and pedagogies in a GIS integrated teaching environment to cultivate underachieving students mastery goal performance approach goal and learning and to decrease avoidance behaviour in learning the subject Although GIS is widely used in Malaysia it has not been embraced by the Malaysian education system and is absent from the Geography curriculums in the primary and secondary school contexts Hence writing of this book will also help the Curriculum Development Centre and Ministry of Education Malaysia develop a GIS based teaching module to enhance the learning motivation of Geography and improve the student level of achievement

Making it comparable David Waddington, Peter Nentwig, Sascha Schanze, 2007 One of the most significant developments in school education in recent years has been the development and introduction of standards a subject of considerable controversy This book is the result of a symposium held in Kiel a symposium that was arranged by two leading science education groups one at IPN Leibniz Institute for Science Education at the University of Kiel in Germany and the other at the University of York UK The seminar brought together experts from 15 countries These countries include those that have extensive experience with the effects of standards on the educational system on individual schools and teachers and on students Other reports concern countries which are introducing them shortly and yet others on countries that are in the early stages of development of standards 11 are from Europe and the others are from Australia Israel Taiwan and the U S The book is divided into three parts In Part A two of the organizers set the scene describing the reasons for arranging the symposium and outlining the preparations and the work done at the meeting Part B contains 17 reports from the 15 countries and in Part C there are two summaries analysing the conclusions taken from two different vantage points The controversies surrounding standards remain However this book gives a succinct and authoritative overall account of the advantages and disadvantages of their introduction taken from the experiences of many countries

Summative assessment has been a contentious issue in educational circles for several decades particularly high stakes assessment events which arise at various junctures of the school cycle especially those at the end of it The French Baccalaureat and English A Levels and their numerous clones throughout the francophone and anglophone worlds are household names and represent milestone events in people s lives as their outcomes are principal determinants of young people s future prospects These examinations are external they are devised conducted and processed by agencies outside the schools usually ministerial examination units As such they act as blind arbiters of student achievement providing the proverbial level playing field which ensures the comparability of outcomes In the pyramidal school structures of yesteryear examinations acted as filters regulating the progression of pupils to subsequent tiers of formal education Exit points occurred from primary school level up from where unsuccessful candidates could enter the labour force and or embark on occupationally specific further education and training With the modernisation of the labour market and an ever higher social demand for access to higher levels of formal education the filtering function of examinations at lower levels of schooling has been gradually eroded while burgeoning numbers of students at the upper secondary level have brought about reforms that include curricular diversification and sometimes radical overhauls of terminating assessment systems including the modification and in some instances abandonment of external examinations This edited volume brings together the experiences of twenty examination systems from around the world to show how these dynamic entities have adapted over time to the changing context of schooling Following an introduction by Stephen P Heyneman of World Bank repute there are sixteen chapters presenting Country Case Studies which have been written up under common subheadings thereby highlighting the comparative nature of the work and facilitating cross referencing The subsequent four chapters elaborate on the theme of external examinations beyond national borders including a contribution by the International Baccalaureate Organisation A defining feature of the work is the attention it pays to what it calls the nuts and bolts of external examinations from question setting to grading procedures These are it is argued instrumental in nurturing and maintaining public confidence in external examinations The book will be of immense value to people involved in educational policy studies especially strategic educational planning as well as those directly concerned with formal assessment The work has been written to appeal to a wide audience of informed persons it is accessible to teachers and interested laypeople as well as to academics
