To See the Wizard Laurie Ousley,2021-02-19 To See the Wizard Politics and the Literature of Childhood takes its central premise as the title indicates from L Frank Baum s The Wonderful Wizard of Oz Upon their return to The Emerald City after killing the Wicked Witch of the West the task the Wizard assigned them Dorothy the Tin Woodman Scarecrow and Lion learn that the wizard is a humbug merely a man from Nebraska manipulating them and the citizens of both the Emerald City and of Oz from behind a screen Yet they all continue to believe in the powers they know he does not have still insisting he grant their wishes The image of the man behind the screen and the reader s continued pursuit of the Wizard is a powerful one that has at its core an issue central to the study of children s literature the relationship between the adult writer and the child reader As Jack Zipes Perry Nodelman Daniel Hade Jacqueline Rose and many others point out before the literature for children and young adults actually reaches these intended readers it has been mediated by many and diverse cultural social political psychological and economic forces These forces occasionally work purposefully in an attempt to consciously socialize or empower training the reader into a particular identity or way of viewing the world by one who considers him or herself an advocate for children Obviously these wizards acting in literature can be the writers themselves but they can also be the publishers corporations school boards teachers librarians literary critics and parents and these advocates can be conservative progressive or any gradation in between It is the purpose of this volume to interrogate the politics and the political powers at work in literature for children and young adults Childhood is an important site of political debate and children often the victims or beneficiaries of adult uses of power one would be hard pressed to find a category of literature more contested than that written for children and adolescents Peter Hunt writes in his introduction to Understanding Children s Literature that children s books are overtly important educationally and commercially with consequences across the culture from language to politics most adults and almost certainly the vast majority in positions of power and influence

read children's books as children and it is inconceivable that the ideologies permeating those books had no influence on their development. If there were a question about the central position literature for children and young adults has in political contests, one needs to look no further than the myriad struggles surrounding censorship. Mark I. West observes for instance: Throughout the history of children's literature, the people who have tried to censor children's books for all their ideological differences share a rather romantic view about the power of books. They believe or at least they profess to believe that books are such a major influence in the formation of children's values and attitudes that adults need to monitor every word that children read. Because childhood and young adulthood are the sites of political debate for issues ranging from civil rights and racism to the construction and definition of the family, indoctrinating children into or subverting national and religious ideologies, the literature of childhood bears consciously political analysis, asking how socialization works, how children and young adults learn of social, cultural, and political expectations, as well as how literature can propose means of fighting those structures. To See the Wizard: Politics and the Literature of Childhood intends to offer analysis of the political content and context of literature written for and about children and young adults. The essays included in To See the Wizard analyze nineteenth and twentieth century literature from America, Britain, Australia, the Caribbean, and Sri Lanka that is for and about children and adolescents. The essays address issues of racial and national identity and representation, poverty and class mobility, gender, sexuality, and power, and the uses of literature in the healing of trauma and the construction of an authentic self. Chart a New Course Rachelle Dene Poth, 2020. In researching the top skills students need to succeed in the future, author Rachelle Dene Poth identified the following: ability to communicate, work in teams, think creatively, problem solve, and design. This book shows educators how to help students develop these essential skills through authentic, real-world learning experiences, building a pathway for the future of learning and work. In this book, educators will get the tools they need to design more purposeful learning experiences to drive student engagement and motivation, promote creativity in learning, model risk-taking, and build classroom culture. Readers will discover how these activities can be woven into instruction rather than layered on existing curriculum, with ideas for getting started, suggestions in response to the statement, "If you're doing this, try this instead," and lessons learned along the way. The book is filled with ideas for empowering students to build confidence, in sharing their learning, become more responsible digital citizens, and evolve into classroom creators.

The Best Night of Your (Pathetic) Life Tara Altebrando, 2013-07-11. An all-day scavenger hunt in the name of eternal small-town glory. With only a week until graduation, there's one last thing Mary and her friends must do together: participate in the Oyster Point High Official Unofficial Senior Week Scavenger Hunt. And Mary is determined to win. Mary lost her spot at Georgetown to self-proclaimed bully Jake Barbone, and she's not about to lose again. But everyone is racing for the finish line with complicated motives, and the team's all-night adventure becomes all-night drama as shifting alliances flare tempers and crushing crushes take over. As the items and points pile up, Mary and her team must reinvent their strategy and themselves in order to win      The Long Slide Tucker Carlson,2021-08-10 From the host of Tucker Carlson Tonight on Fox News and the New York Times best selling author of Ship of Fools a collection of nostalgic writings that underscore America's long slide from innocence to orthodoxy      Suburban Grindhouse Nick Cato,2020-08-03 In SUBURBAN GRINDHOUSE Nick Cato becomes the Marcel Proust of trash cinema resurrecting memories of the kinds of late lamented Mom and Pop fleapits in which seeing an anti social movie with your buddies was a gloriously anti social act Michael Marano movie columnist Cemetery Dance Film review books may be a dime a dozen but how many include the actual experience of witnessing the movie in a theater Zine editor and online columnist Nick Cato shares his time growing up in seedy NY and NJ theaters and how these screenings helped to shape opinion of the movies Whether one of his beloved local theaters in Staten Island NY or at a double feature at the infamous 42nd Street in Times Square during its heyday audiences were always lively and outspoken Part memoir part film criticism SUBURBAN GRINDHOUSE looks at the audiences as much as it is a book about exploitation movies themselves      A School of Our Own Samuel Levin,Susan Engel,2008-10-01 The remarkable true story of the high school junior who started his own school and earned acclaim nationwide will make you laugh cry and cheer John Merrow author of The Influence of Teachers Samuel Levin a teenager who had already achieved international fame for creating Project Sprout the first farm to school lunch program in the United States was frustrated with his own education and saw disaffection among his peers In response he lobbied for and created a new school based on a few simple ideas about what kids need from their high school experience The school succeeded beyond anyone's wildest expectations and went on to be featured on NPR and in Newsweek and the Washington Post Since its beginnings in 2010 the Independent Project serves as a national model for inspiring student engagement In creating his school Samuel collaborated with Susan Engel the noted developmental psychologist educator and author and Samuel's mother A School of Our Own is their account of their life changing year in education a book that combines poignant stories educational theory and practical how to advice for building new more engaging educational environments for our children      South of Heaven Thomas French,1993 Journalist Thomas French provides a dramatic sometimes shocking inside look at teenage America as seen through a year at Florida's Largo High and the lives of five students a football player a black homecoming queen and the members of a hip college bound clique called the Heathers      What Can I Do Now? Ferguson,2010 Guides students on the path to a career working in the business and finance industry Job profiles include accountants and auditors business managers franchise owners and human resources workers      Place-Based Writing in Action Rob Montgomery,Amanda Montgomery,2024-02-06 This text presents a variety of ways for students to meet traditional instructional goals in writing while also learning how writing can help them become stewards of the natural world and advocates for their own communities Built on a foundation of emerging research and theory and grounded in the lived reality of teachers this book explores the material and virtual worlds as places that can be equally productive as sources for
