Compound Containment Dong Jung Kim, 2022-03-07 When does a reigning great power of the international system supplement military containment of a challenging power by restricting its economic exchanges with that state. Scholars of great power politics have traditionally focused on examining a reigning power's military containment of a challenging power. In direct contrast, Compound Containment demonstrates that these conventional studies are flawed without a sound understanding of the multilayered aspects of containment strategy in great power politics. Since economic capacity and military power are intimately linked to one another, countering a challenging power requires addressing both economic and military dimensions. Nonetheless, this nexus of security and economy in a reigning power's response to a challenging power cannot be explained by traditional theories that dominate research in international security. Author Dong Jung Kim fills a gap in the scholarship on great power competition by investigating when a reigning power will make its military containment of a challenging power compound by simultaneously employing restrictive economic measures. Its main theoretical claims are corroborated by an analysis of key historical cases of reigning power challenging power competition. This book also offers policy prescriptions for the United States by examining whether the United States is in a position to complement military containment of China with restrictive economic measures.

The Dynamics of Change in Modern World Politics Jean Kachiga, 2018-04-04. In modern world politics, there exists a dynamic of change and an observable pattern of phenomena. These phenomena consist of driving forces of new paradigms that their exigencies induce of new epochs that such exigencies provoke of adjustments made by states who may be initiators, new comers, late comers, or inactive, and of shifts in the hierarchy of world powers that the differentiated rate of their adjustment success produces, causing what power shift theory refers to as hegemonic transition. This book examines the conditions under which such change occurs, the recurrence of such change in various epochs of the modern era, and the pattern that such recurrence displays in order to explain the recurrent shift in the hierarchy of wealth, status, and power among peer states.

Globalization and Democracy Stephen J. Rosow, Jim George, 2014-07-22. Combining theory with compelling case studies, this book examines the globalizing world of democracy. Noted critical scholars Stephen J. Rosow and Jim George argue that democracy must be understood not as a unified concept but as a diversity of political responses to specific conditions and political struggles. Doing so reveals how democracy is taking multiple forms around the world in response to neoliberal globalism and the increasing pace and complexity of everyday life. The authors show how the current phase of globalization is destabilizing the dominance of Western democracy promotion as resisters challenge common understandings and forms of democracy. Explaining the theory behind neoliberal globalization and democracy promotion, they consider its impact and struggles against it in South Africa, post-Soviet Russia, India, and Venezuela, and other pink tide states in Latin America. Rosow and George also examine how digital communications networks, the centralization of security, and the fluid movements of people and ideas are destabilizing traditional democratic theories. At the same time, they give rise to concepts of democracy that focus on new forms of citizenship and democratic participation: a cosmopolitan democratic constitutionalism, cross-boundary political activism, and local and community-based economic and democratic practices.

Neoliberal Hegemony and the Pink Tide in Latin America Tom Chodor, 2014-12-15 The book examines the Pink Tide of leftist governments in Latin America struggling against neoliberal hegemony from a critical International Political Economy perspective Focusing particularly on Venezuela and Brazil it evaluates the transformative and emancipatory potentials of their political projects domestically regionally and globally
