The Facts of Life: Home life Victor Bétis, Howard Swan, 1912 Seeing, Thinking and Knowing A. Carsetti, 2006-04-11 According to Putnam to talk of facts without specifying the language to be used is to talk of nothing object itself has many uses and as we creatively invent new uses of words we find that we can speak of objects that were not values of any variable in 1 any language we previously spoke The notion of object becomes then like the notion of reference a sort of open land an unknown territory The exploration of this land seems to be constrained by use and invention But we may wonder is it possible to guide invention and control use In what way in particular is it possible at the level of natural language to link together program expressions and natural evolution To give an answer to these onerous questions we should immediately point out that cognition as well as natural language has to be considered first of all as a peculiar function of active biosystems and that it results from complex interactions between the organism and its surroundings In the moment an organism perceives an object of whatever kind it immediately begins to interpret this object in order to react properly to it It is not necessary for the monkey to perceive the tree in itself What counts is survival Revue Des Français.
