Ephraim Harold Mizruchi, 1967 Make, Think, Imagine John Browne, 2019-08-28 Today's unprecedented pace of change leaves many people wondering what new technologies are doing to our lives Has social media robbed us of our privacy and fed us with false information Are the decisions about our health security and finances made by computer programs inexplicable and biased Will these algorithms become so complex that we can no longer control them Are robots going to take our jobs Can we provide housing for our ever growing urban populations And has our demand for energy driven the Earth's climate to the edge of catastrophe John Browne argues that we need not and must not put the brakes on technological advance Civilization is founded on engineering innovation all progress stems from the human urge to make things and to shape the world around us resulting in greater freedom health and wealth for all Drawing on history his own experiences and conversations with many of today's great innovators he uncovers the basis for all progress and its consequences both good and bad. He argues compellingly that the same spark that triggers each innovation can be used to counter its negative consequences. Make Think Imagine provides an eloquent blueprint for how we can keep moving towards a brighter future.

The State of Democracy in Latin America Jonathan R. Barton, Laura Tedesco, 2004-11-04

The State of Democracy in Latin America presents a critical analysis of the contemporary democratic state in Latin America. In a shift away from the more typical analyses of Latin American political change during the 1990s, this book presents a more state-centric perspective that seeks to explain why transitions to democracy and trends towards better governance have failed to provide more political and social stability in the continent. Through a deeper analysis of underlying social relations and values and how these manifest themselves through institutions, the state is understood not purely as an institutional form but rather as a set of interdependent relations that are shaped by particular collective and individual interests.
