

In this practical book, you will find the essential features that need to be taken into consideration during gestation, calving and the postpartum period in order to deal with calving successfully.

3 Physiology of calving: normal delivery

Stages of normal delivery

Calving takes place in three well-defined stages:

1. Distension stage
2. Partial expulsive stage
3. Full expulsive stage

| Stage             | Duration                                         | Signs                                                                                                                                     | Comments                                          |
|-------------------|--------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------|
| Distension        | 6-18 hours                                       | Mucus, mottledness, redness to skin. Usually, the fetal membranes can be seen in the vulva.                                               | Gradually becomes positioned in the pelvic canal. |
| Partial expulsion | Usually 1-3 hours (Rarely 30 minutes to 4 hours) | Abdominal contractions that increase in frequency, intensity, regularity, rupture of the foetal membranes and rupture of the foetal skin. | Foetus being pushed canal.                        |
| Full expulsive    | Within 12-15 postpartum                          | Rupture of the placenta.                                                                                                                  | Post-partum.                                      |

1. Distension stage

Distension stage of calving. The vulva is distended and the foetal membranes are visible.

- Cervix progressively dilates until approximately the size of a fist.
- The position of the cervix is up and 15 and 18 hours before the foetus is born.
- Characterised by a specific foetal mucus, mottledness, redness to skin, and rupture of the foetal membranes.
- Repeated series of abdominal contractions of 10-20 minutes.
- During contractions, which are slow, the calf is pushed into the pelvic canal.
- When the cervix is sufficiently dilated, the foetus is pushed through it and the calf is born.

2. Partial expulsive stage

- Abdominal contractions start as the calf's head passes over the cervix.
- Contractions last about 10-15 minutes, but longer and more intense in intensity.
- During periods, especially before, when the calf is in the canal.
- Rupture of the foetal membranes, the rupture of the foetal skin, the "foetal skin" is born.

3 Physiology of calving: normal delivery

Presentations

Definitions

- Presentation indicates the relation between the long axis of the foetus and the plane of the pelvic canal.
- Position indicates which surface of the foetus is in contact with the pelvic canal (dorsal, ventral or lateral).
- Posture indicates the position of the limbs and head, in extension or flexion.

In a normal spontaneous delivery, two presentations are possible:

1. Breech

This is the most common position of the calf.

- Normal presentation: 1 is born "head first".
- Abnormal presentation: the calf is born in a position which is not head first.

2. Head

Although this is considered a normal position, it is less frequent and usually requires a longer delivery and may increase the mortality of the calf.

- Normal presentation: 1 is born "head first".
- Abnormal presentation: the calf is born in a position which is not head first.
