Place-Based Service Learning in Higher

Education Shauna Reilly, Mark Neikirk, Samantha Langley-Turnbaugh, 2023-11-20 Place Based Service Learning in Higher Education Building Trust and Opportunities Over Time looks at the intersection of student research and community based learning in a concentrated location over a period of ten years This study examines the use of an urban neighborhood as a place based source for engagement partners and opportunities With a sustained programmatic commitment to the neighborhood Northern Kentucky University sought to build trust over a period of ten years with residents nonprofit agencies serving them and other stakeholders who in turn could generate a steady stream of engagement opportunities valued by the neighborhood and valuable to students learning Analysis found that this commitment indeed built trust with partners and produced mutually beneficial opportunities including lasting relationships impactful work in the community and retention of faculty and students

Service-learning Alan S. Waterman, 2014-03-18 Linking research and educational practice for the benefit of both is not a new idea If practice such as service learning is a bold departure from the status quo however research is not just beneficial it is critical If schools are to become laboratories of democracy and entrepreneurship and if students are to become engaged as partners in renewal of their communities a research case must be made for service learning Does learning take place Will other kinds of learning suffer What kinds of practice are most effective Clearly solid research is essential if this transforming way of teaching and learning is to be fully integrated into American schooling and youth development institutions The National Youth Leadership Council NYLC took a first step toward joining service learning practice with research in 1983 In 1991 NYLC created a center which initiated and encouraged program evaluation formative research that informs and improves practice and summative studies that measure results This volume grew out of a National Service Learning Conference an annual event convened by the NYLC A day long research seminar at the conference brought together researchers to discuss the latest developments among themselves and with practitioners Impressive in their range and rigor their papers offer documentation and analysis useful to an emerging research knowledge base It is a starting point for the evidence needed to firmly establish service learning for K 12 age people as a widely accepted way of teaching and learning

The Landscape of Rural Service Learning, and What It Teaches Us All Randy Stoecker, Nicholas Holton, Charles Ganzert, 2016-11-01 Up until now the majority of literature about service learning has focused on urban areas while comparatively little attention has been paid to activities in rural communities The Landscape of Rural Service Learning and What It Teaches Us All is designed to provide a comprehensive look at rural service learning The practices that have developed in rural areas partly because of the lack of nonprofits and other services found in urban settings produce lessons and models that can help us all rethink the dominant forms of service learning defined by urban contexts Where there are few formal organizations people end up working more directly with one another where there is a need for services in locations where they are unavailable service learning becomes more than just an academic exercise or assignment This volume includes theoretical frameworks that are informed by the rural concrete stories that show how rural service learning has developed and is now practiced practical strategies that apply across service learning contexts and points to ponder as we all consider our next steps along the path of meaningful service learning

Applications of Service Learning in Higher Education Watson, Sandy White, 2024-03-22 In higher education a pressing issue has emerged how to authentically connect academic pursuits with real world challenges The last decade has witnessed an escalating call for heightened interaction between universities and the real world Demands have grown for higher education institutions to instill democratic citizenship and address students moral development In response to this rise in demand there has been a notable shift toward emphasizing service learning within academia As educators grapple with the imperative to seamlessly integrate theory and practice Applications of Service Learning in Higher Education steps into the forefront delving into the myriad applications of service learning to effectively address this critical issue Applications of Service Learning in Higher Education examines the complexities surrounding service learning in higher education At its core the book aims to showcase concrete examples of successful service learning applications acting as a catalyst for the integration of this transformative pedagogy into the academic fabric Beyond the surface the book delves into the intricate planning execution and assessment stages of service learning projects whether manifested within local communities or on an international scale It seeks to fill notable knowledge gaps particularly in less explored regions like Latin America and the Caribbean and underscores the significance of multidisciplinary experiences As the narrative unfolds the book addresses the symbiotic relationship between service learning and students programs of study transforming communities into vibrant classrooms where learning transcends traditional boundaries

Problematizing Service-Learning Trae Stewart,Nicole Webster,2010-12-01 Interest in and research on civic engagement and service learning have increased exponentially In this rapid growth efforts have been made to institutionalize pedagogies of engagement across both K 12 and higher education As a result increased positive attention has been complemented equally by well founded critiques complicating experiential approaches claims and questioning if institutional financial and philosophical commitment is warranted A key complaint from these critical voices is the tightly woven protective insular core in the field of service learning This claim is not unfounded nor necessarily bad Initial efforts to legitimize service learning and other forms of community based education required group cohesion The concern however is that the initial group cohesion has led to groupthink wherein group members have avoided critical analysis and evaluation This book aims to prevent groupthink within the field of service learning by allowing for the examination of effective alternatives by new voices who can serve as critical evaluators from within the field itself Myriad perspectives are offered including empirical theoretical practical and community perspectives Authors challenge preconceived notions of service learning who is benefited by this pedagogy outcomes of participation and implementation and most importantly the theoretical conceptual and methodological lenses through which service learning is even considered The book allows servicelearning s major criticisms to be examined challenges to be voiced and research agendas to be laid This book parallels service learning s presence and popularity across various disciplines fields Chapters are written from broad perspectives and are aimed to inform service learning researchers and educators community organizations and policy makers who consider service learning as a means to address civic responsibility Authors expose theoretical and philosophical concerns circulating in the field and often still occupying spaces on the fringe of discourse action and research The book raises fundamental questions for undergraduate and graduate courses with social justice themes by considering the implications that pedagogies of engagement have on learners and communities Federal Funding Sources for Rural Areas ,2002 Creating

Wilczenski,Susan M. Coomey,2007-06-03 School is so boring I hate it Why do I have to learn this stuff I ll never use it What does this class have to do with anything As school psychologists and school counselors how often do you hear this Chances are many of the students referred to you do not have any cognitive impairment or emotional disability They are bored and disengaged from school Some students may be struggling with personal and career identity issues Others come to you when interpersonal concerns or emotional distress interfere with their ability to learn Still others have learning disabilities cognitive impairment or psychological disorders that hinder their academic progress In this era of standards based instruction and No Child Left Behind the bottom line for schools is students academic performance The intense pressure on teachers to close the achievement gap and to produce students who achieve academically also pressures you to find effective interventions to promote school success Ultimately the goal of your work is to enable academic learning to take place for both regular and special education students The challenge is enormous eService-Learning Jean R. Strait,Katherine Nordyke,2023-07-03 This book serves as an introduction to using online teaching technologies and hybrid forms of teaching for experiential learning and civic engagement Service learning has kept pace neither with the rapid growth in e learning in all its forms nor with the reality that an increasing number of students are learning online without exposure to the benefits of this powerful pedagogy Eservice learning electronic service learning combines service learning and on line learning and enables the delivery of the instruction and or the service to occur partially or fully online Eservice learning allows students anywhere regardless of geography physical constraints work schedule or other access limitations to experience service learning It reciprocally also equips online learning with a powerful tool for engaging students In eservice learning the core components of service learning and reflection may take a different form due to the online medium for example reflection often occurs through discussion board interactions journals wikis or blogs in an eservice learning course Moreover the service though still community based creates a world of opportunities to connect students with communities across the globe

as well as at their very own doorstep This book introduces the reader to the four emerging types of eservice learning from Extreme EService Learning XE SL classes where 100% of the instruction and 100% of the service occur online to three distinct forms of hybrid where either the service or the instruction are delivered wholly on line with students for instance providing online products for far away community partners or in which both are delivered on site and online It considers the instructional potential of common mobile technologies phones tablets and mobile reading devices The authors also address potential limitations such as technology challenges difficulties sustaining three way communication among the instructor community partner and students and added workload The book includes research studies on effectiveness as well as examples of practice such drafting grants for a community partner an informational technology class building online communities for an autism group and an online education class providing virtual mentoring to at risk students in New Orleans from across the country

Social Work and Service Learning Meryl Nadel, Virginia Majewski, Marilyn Sullivan-Cosetti, 2007 Service learning and social work education comprise an exciting yet underutilized partnership This book represents the first comprehensive overview of this active and empowering approach to learning in social work Both educators and practitioners will discover conceptual and practical guidance for developing productive community based projects Often envisioned as located at the midpoint on a continuum from volunteer work to internship service learning combines the opportunity to serve with the opportunity to learn It offers community agencies a chance to collaborate with academic colleagues to meet identified community needs frequently with an explicit social justice dimension The contributors illustrate how service learning facilitates students understanding and interacting with community members as partners not clients Service learning encourages students to use critical thinking skills to reflect on their work and its implications This combination of study action reflection in conjunction with course content is highly effective The book explores its subject from several perspectives The first section serves as a conceptual and theoretical orientation to service learning in social work The second section offers models that illustrate many ways of implementing service learning across the components of the social work curriculum The final two parts of the book focus on evaluation and service learning in the broader context of civic engagement
