These findings are consistent with the idea that the brain is a complex system that can adapt to a wide range of stimuli. The results suggest that the brain is not a simple machine, but a dynamic system that can change and grow over time. This has important implications for our understanding of the brain and its role in human behavior.

Research is underway on the mechanisms by which the brain processes information. The brain is a complex system, and the study of its functions is a major area of research in psychology.
