(Re)Constructing Memory: Education, Identity, and Conflict Michelle J. Bellino, James H. Williams, 2017-02-08 How do schools protect young people and call on the youngest citizens to respond to violent conflict and division operating outside and sometimes within school walls What kinds of curricular representations of conflict contribute to the construction of national identity and what kinds of encounters challenge presumed boundaries between us and them Through contemporary and historical case studies drawn from Cambodia Egypt Northern Ireland Peru and Rwanda among others this collection explores how societies experiencing armed conflict and its aftermath imagine education as a space for forging collective identity peace and stability and national citizenship In some contexts the erasure of conflict and the homogenization of difference are central to shaping national identities and attitudes In other cases collective memory of conflict functions as a central organizing frame through which citizenship and national identity are re constructed with embedded messages about who belongs and how social belonging is achieved The essays in this volume illuminate varied and complex inter relationships between education conflict and national identity while accounting for ways in which policymakers teachers youth and community members replicate resist and transform conflict through everyday interactions in educational spaces

Engaging Geographies Juliana Mansvelt,Russell Prince,Michael Roche,2014-06-19 This volume draws together three connected strands of research dealing with landscapes lifecourses and mobilities and will be of interest to social and cultural geographers and those in allied social science fields particularly those with interests in the circulation of people and policy at a number of scales and locations Landscapes might be considered to be a very mainstream geographical theme though we treat them in an adventurous way by concentrating on infrastructure and ideology art and resistance as well as through a more mainstream exploration of multifunctional landscapes Attention to diverse aspects of the lifecourse allows us to understand the social spatial and structural complexities which characterise social relationships from birth to death Mobilities likewise provide an opportunity to draw on some concepts from contemporary social and cultural geography relating to the movement of people and ideas over time and across space Although much of the substantive content has a New Zealand and Australian orientation it is presented in a way that engages with broader international literatures

Planning and Design for Sustainable Urban Mobility Un-Habitat, 2013-10-30 Urban transport systems worldwide are faced by a multitude of challenges Among the most visible of these are the traffic gridlocks experienced on city roads and highways all over the world The prescribed solution to transport problems in most cities has thus been to build more infrastructures for cars with a limited number of cities improving public transport systems in a sustainable manner However a number of challenges faced by urban transport systems such as greenhouse gas emissions noise and air pollution and road traffic accidents do not necessarily get solved by the construction of new infrastructure Planning and Design for Sustainable Urban Mobility argues that the development of sustainable urban transport systems requires a conceptual leap The purpose of transportation and mobility is to gain access to destinations activities services and goods Thus access is the ultimate objective of transportation As a result urban planning and design should focus on how to bring people and places together by creating cities that focus on accessibility rather than simply increasing the length of urban transport infrastructure or increasing the movement of people or goods Urban form and the functionality of the city are therefore a major focus of this report which highlights the importance of integrated land use and transport planning This new report of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme UN Habitat the world's leading authority on urban issues provides some thought provoking insights and policy recommendations on how to plan and design sustainable urban mobility systems The Global Report on Human Settlements is the most authoritative and up to date global assessment of human settlements conditions and trends Preceding issues of the report have addressed such topics as Cities in a Globalizing World The Challenge of Slums Financing Urban Shelter Enhancing Urban Safety and Security Planning Sustainable Cities and Cities and Climate Change

The Rise and Fall of Civic Education Michael Learn, 2024-09-16 Social studies is a field in crisis The crisis stems from failure to establish the very foundation of social studies purpose in public education civic education Social studies advocates have never put forth a coherent method for teaching civic education because policymakers and the public have been unable to agree upon a general definition of civic education This issue has disrupted the field since the early days As educators sought to include civic education within public schools as a dedicated field social studies evolved into a blending of history social sciences and civic education Social studies evolution never resolved the differences between the three with each discipline striving to control the narrative Instead of creating a unified field the disciplines devalued social studies and thus any discipline associated with it The Rise and Fall of Civic Education The Battle for Social Studies in a Shifting Historical Landscape investigates the changing definitions and purposes ascribed to social studies in the United States through time This result is viewed through the rising tensions from culture wars as America s divisive politics fight to control the narrative of the disciplines within social studies
