Howard Zinn Study Guide Questions:

A People's History of the United States Howard Zinn, Kathy Emery, Ellen Reeves, 2003 This brilliant and moving history of the American people Library Journal presents more than 500 years of American social and cultural history going well beyond the wars and presidencies contained in traditional texts to tell the stories of working men and women Abridged for use in the classroom

Reading, Learning, Teaching Howard Zinn Ed Welch, 2009 Howard Zinn is one of the most celebrated historians and social activists of our time Raised in a working class family in Brooklyn he was a shipyard worker and union organizer when World War II began He served as a bombardier in the European Theatre and this experience shaped his opposition to war as an instrument of foreign policy He became active in the civil rights movement as well as the anti war movement from the 1950s to the 1970s He is perhaps best known as the author of A People's History of the United States published in 1980 This study of Zinn's life and work opens the door to many aspects of historical study generally untouched in traditional secondary and collegiate survey courses in United States history To Zinn history is not an objective account of the past to be indelibly carved into the brains of American citizens rather history is an ever changing palette of events as people react to the contexts and cultures they find themselves immersed in By considering the lives and thoughts of less politically and socially prominent individuals students have the opportunity to re-examine their own beliefs and assumptions about contemporary American life Students will gain insight into how history is constructed and recorded through a consideration of the life and writings of Howard Zinn

Reading Like a Historian Avishag Reisman, 2011 Enthusiasm about the instructional potential of primary sources dates to the late 19th century and has been echoed recently in the work of literacy experts historians and educational psychologists Yet no extended intervention study has been undertaken to test the effectiveness of primary source instruction in real history classrooms This study with 236 eleventh grade students in five San Francisco high schools represented the first large scale extended curriculum intervention in disciplinary reading in an urban district The Reading Like a Historian RLH curriculum constituted a radical departure from traditional textbook driven instruction by using a new activity structure the Document Based Lesson in which students used background knowledge and disciplinary reading strategies to interrogate and then reconcile historical accounts from multiple texts A quasi-experiment control design measured the effects of a six month intervention on four dimensions 1 students' historical thinking 2 their ability to transfer historical thinking strategies to contemporary issues 3 their mastery of factual knowledge and 4 their growth in general reading comprehension MANCOVA analysis yielded significant main effects for the treatment condition on all four outcome measures Qualitative analyses of videotaped classroom lessons were conducted to determine the frequency and nature of whole class text based discussion Only nine whole class text based discussions were identified in over 100 videotaped classroom lessons despite the presence of instructional materials explicitly designed to support student discussion of debatable historical questions Analysis of teacher and student participation suggests a relationship between active teacher facilitation that reviews background knowledge and poses direct questions about texts and higher levels of student argumentation This dissertation is structured as three free standing papers each of which addresses one aspect of the larger study In the first paper I discuss the design of the quasi experimental study and report quantitative findings In the second paper I locate teacher facilitation of whole class historical discussion in the literature on classroom discourse and I propose a developmental framework for analyzing student historical argumentation in classroom discussion In the third and final paper I discuss the theoretical underpinnings of the intervention curriculum and offer two examples to illustrate the structure of the Document Based Lesson

A People's History for the Classroom Bill Bigelow, Howard Zinn, 2008 Presents a collection of lessons and activities for teaching American history for students in middle school and high school

The Obama Question Gary Dorrien, 2012-02-16 The election of Barack Obama to the presidency in 2008 was hailed by many as a historic event and by some as the end of the Reagan era in American politics But conservatives have condemned Obama from the beginning of his presidency and many progressives charge that Obama has betrayed the causes that he espoused in 2008 This book offers a brilliant critique of Obama's presidency and a powerful case that progressives should not give up on Obama Gary Dorrien described by Princeton philosopher Cornel West as the preeminent social ethicist in North America today argues that Obama is a figure of protean irony and complexity Obama has been a bitter disappointment in many ways Dorrien contends yet Obama also has historic achievements to his credit that are too often discounted Dorrien emphasizes the importance of Obama's story to his career and devotes chapters to the economic crisis the health care reform debate war and foreign policy banking regulation and the federal budget and the case for a progressive politics of the common good Ultimately Dorrien says the Obama question is whether or not Obama's presidency will mark the end of the Reagan era when giant corporations and the wealthy got whatever they wanted military budgets soared and American politics was ruled by the fantasy of tax cuts paying for themselves Dorrien argues that there is still time to redeem the hope of the 2008 election bringing an end to the Reagan era The Obama Question will stand as an insightful evaluation of a tumultuous presidency long after the next election has passed

Framing Crime Keith Hayward, the late Mike Presdee, 2010-07-02 In a world in which media images of crime and deviance proliferate where every facet of offending is reflected in a vast hall of mirrors Framing Crime Cultural Criminology and the Image makes sense of the increasingly blurred line between the real and the virtual Images of crime and crime control have become almost as real as crime and criminal justice itself The meaning of both crime and crime control now resides not solely in the essential and essentially false factuality of crime rates or arrest records but also in the contested processes of symbolic display cultural interpretation and representational negotiation It is essential then that criminologists are closely attuned to the various ways in which crime is imagined constructed and framed within modern society Framing Crime responds to this demand with a collection of papers aimed at helping the reader to understand the ways in which the contemporary story of crime is constructed and promulgated through the image It also provides the relevant analytical and research tools to unearth the hidden social and ideological concerns that frequently underpin images of crime violence and transgression Framing Crime will be of interest to students and academics in the fields of criminology crime and the media and sociology

The Obama Question Gary J. Dorrien, 2012 This text offers a critique of Barack Obama's presidency and a powerful case that progressives should not give up on Obama Obama has been a bitter disappointment in many ways Dorrien contends yet he also has historic achievements to his credit that are too often discounted
