Contemporary Japan Genaro Castro-Vazquez, 2016-07-01 This book presents an ethnographic investigation of intimate and reproductive behaviour in current Japanese society grounded in the viewpoints of a group of Japanese mothers It adopts a new approach in studying the decreasing fertility rates which are contributing to the ageing population in modern Japan Based on the accounts of 57 married Japanese women it employs symbolic interactionism as a framework to examine the various factors affecting decision making on childbirth The influence of Assisted Reproductive Technologies ARTs abortion and contraception in the daily interactions and experiences of the mothers are analysed to offer a new perspective on the Japanese demographic conundrum With strong contextual information as the foundation the book contributes fresh insight into how Japanese women perceive the idea of childbirth in a modernized society and also assists our understanding of the factors causing Japan's ageing population. Further, it places the mothers' experiences within current global debates to highlight the salience of the Japanese case. As the first book to provide an in-depth examination of the social process underpinning the decision to become a mother in Japan, it will appeal to students and scholars of Japanese culture and society.

Mussolini, Mustard Gas and the Fascist Way of War Charles Stephenson, 2024-04-18

An examination of the first conflict to see the large-scale systematic deployment of chemical weaponry since the end of World War I. In early October 1935 and without any declaration of war, some two hundred thousand men comprising soldiers and airmen of the Italian armed forces, Fascist Blackshirt Militia, Eritrean ascari and Somali dubats invaded the independent state of Ethiopia (Abyssinia). It was an operation entirely of choice, the chooser being Il Duce Benito Mussolini. The resultant conflict is often described as a colonial war, while it was certainly launched with the intent of turning Ethiopia into an Italian possession; it was in fact a war of aggression against an independent sovereign state with membership of the League of Nations. A state that had, according to one of its nineteenth-century rulers, been for fourteen centuries a Christian island in a sea of pagans. The swiftness of the Italian victory resulted from their possession and ruthless use of technology, most particularly aircraft, mustard gas, and motorisation/mechanisation. Since they were fighting an enemy who possessed none of these things, then they were able to wage, indeed inaugurate, what the prominent military theorist JFC Fuller dubbed totalitarian warfare, or as it became known a few years later, total war. This, he opined, was the Fascist/scientific way of making war. In his considered view, the Fascist Army that waged it was a scientific military instrument. This book examines that campaign in military and political terms.
