National Competition Policy Report:

The Influence of National Competition Policy on the International Competitiveness of Nations Andreas

Mitschke, 2008-05-05 Does every open economy profit from economic globalization Why do some countries profit more than others What role does national economic policy play with regard to a nation's potential to profit from economic globalization Is there a need for an international harmonization of economic policy in order to protect global competition and to prevent international conflicts or to the contrary is national economic policy a crucial and indispensable instrument for fostering the international competitiveness of an economy These questions were the starting point for a research project of the Department of Economics at the University of Nuremberg in 2003 The intention was to take a fresh look at the various harmonization claims which have been raised both in economic literature and by politicians As politicians in general simultaneously also strive for enhancing the international competitiveness of their nation the project aimed at the relation between harmonization claims on the one hand and the competitiveness debate on the other The decision to set the focus of this project on the role of competition policy has been triggered against the background of the ongoing debate on international competition rules In October 2001 the International Competition Network ICN has been established in New York Furthermore the Doha Ministerial Declaration of November 2001 envisaged WTO negotiations on international competition rules Report on Competition Policy Commission of the European Communities, 2007 APAIS 1994: Australian public affairs information service,

The Internationalisation of Competition Rules Brendan J. Sweeney, 2009-09-10 The widespread move towards more market driven models of political economy combined with the expanding internationalisation of business and commerce has led to a series of proposals for global competition rules To date these proposals have been hotly contested The purpose of this book is to investigate in some depth whether there is a rational foundation for pursuing international competition rules and what form these laws should take The book takes examples from existing competition laws around the world in particular the US and the EU both of which have a long history of enforcing established competition rules New Accountabilities, New Challenges John Wanna, Evert A. Lindquist, Penelope Marshall, 2015-04-08 This important and challenging volume of essays draws on insights from leading academics and public servants from Australia New Zealand the United Kingdom Canada and elsewhere It provides an excellent series of critiques of both the systemic accountabilities and the policy processes of government by drawing on meticulously researched topical and real world case studies of governance Its contribution to the understanding of the applied processes of government in this way is exemplary Topics covered include restoring trust in government parliamentary scrutiny of the APS administrative law and FOI budgetary reforms implementation issues competition policy indigenous administration collaboration with the NGO sector educational reforms and the changes to the Auditor General's mandate International Handbook of Network Industries Matthias Finger, R. W. Kneke, 2011 To learn about how economic and institutional forces have shaped the network industries and policies towards them read the first part of the book To discover their impacts on particular industries read the second part And to find out what has happened in particular countries read the third part I think anyone interested in network industries should read all of it The book s structure allows for many interesting comparisons across countries and sectors Richard Green University of Birmingham UK This is a very useful and comprehensive guide to reforms in network industries in communications energy transport and water It is organized by generic topic sector and region Its authors are acknowledged experts I am confident that this Handbook will be a widely read and valuable resource for many years Martin Cave London School of Economics UK Quite an accomplishment this Handbook provides by far the most comprehensive overview of the role of the private sector and competition in infrastructure industries with thoughtful surveys of each of the major infrastructure sectors and of the key regions and countries Jos G mez Ib ez Harvard University US In recent decades all infrastructures have undergone significant restructuring This worldwide phenomenon is often labelled liberalization and although expectations were high with respect to lower prices greater efficiency and innovation the expected gains have not always been fully realized This extensive state of the art Handbook provides a comprehensive overview of the various experiences of liberalization across different sectors regions and disciplines The multidisciplinary approach focuses on the economic political and institutional aspects of liberalization as well as to a lesser extent on technological issues As such it constitutes a unique contribution as this broad overview is often lost in the sector specific country focused and purely disciplinary approaches prevalent in the current literature Sectors explored include telecoms the Internet energy and transport whilst the truly global perspective incorporates unique case studies from an array of developed and developing countries including the US China India and the EU The International Handbook of Network Industries will become the definitive volume for academics researchers and students of economics political science and law interested in infrastructure regulation It will also prove a valuable guide to practitioners and policy makers involved in liberalization and competition

National Competition Policy Jan Newby, Frederick George Hilmer, 1993      On the Problem of Foundation Skills and the Futures of Work Garry Argent, Peter Kelly, 2025-03-27 This book provides an analysis of how global capitalism digital disruption and new worlds of work have reshaped ideas about language literacy and numeracy foundation skills in a neoliberal foundation skills apparatus in Australia since the 1980s The book uses Michel Foucault s genealogical approach to producing critical histories of our present From this perspective it examines how these disruptions have transformed what was once a voluntary not for profit community movement of education for migrants and marginalised people into a sophisticated government community and for profit training and skills sector which imagines foundation skills learners as choice making consumers      Comparative Competition Policy G. Bruce Doern, Stephen Wilks, 1996 This book provides definitive and in some cases unique studies of the six model regimes of the USA Germany Japan the United Kingdom and the European Union Each chapter is written by eminent country specialists is based on original research and is up to date The comparative dimension is presented in explicit introductory and concluding chapters but the comparison is also set in the context of the globalization of economic activity and the internationalization of policy Antitrust and Global Capitalism, 1930-2004 Tony A. Freyer, 2006-10-09 The international spread of antitrust suggested the historical process shaping global capitalism By the 1930s Americans feared that big business exceeded the government's capacity to impose accountability engendering the most aggressive antitrust campaign in history Meanwhile big business had emerged to varying degrees in liberal Britain Australia and France Nazi Germany and militarist Japan These same nations nonetheless expressly rejected American style antitrust as unsuited to their cultures and institutions After World War II however governments in these nations as well as the European Community adopted workable antitrust regimes By the millennium antitrust was instrumental to the clash between state sovereignty and globalization What ideological and institutional factors explain the global change from opposing to supporting antitrust Addressing this question this book throws new light on the struggle over liberal capitalism during the Great Depression and World War II the postwar Allied occupations of Japan and Germany the reaction against American big business hegemony during the Cold War and the clash over globalization and the WTO

OECD Economic Surveys: Australia 2004 OECD, 2005-03-03 This 2004 OECD Economic Survey of Australia presents a comprehensive overview of the Australian economy The special chapter covers competition and economic performance

OECD Economic Surveys: Australia 2006 OECD, 2006-07-31 This 2006 edition of OECD's periodic survey of the Australian economy finds that reforms have raised both economic performance and resilience but that some challenges still remain including closing the productivity gap and raising labour The Interplay between European and National Competition Law after Regulation 1/2003 Lúcio Tomé Feteira, 2015-12-08 If we can speak of the European Community's economic constitution we can assert that competition rules together with free movement rules form its core Notably implementation of the competition rules enshrined in Articles 81 and 82 EC changed radically with the enactment of Regulation 1/2003 which in effect dispensed with mandatory prior notifications and allowed national authorities to apply Article 101(3) TFEU directly Given that national legislations perceive certain types of unilateral conduct even if adopted by a non-dominant undertaking as a potential source of anticompetitive effects an important question concerns the leeway enjoyed by national authorities under the exception to the convergence rule in Article 3(2) of Regulation 1/2003 and the consequent effect on both legal practice and policy issues In this lucidly argued book focusing on national competition provisions in Germany France Italy and the United Kingdom that deal with such conduct the author provides a detailed examination of how such considerations as the following are affected by Regulation 1/2003 prohibition of abuse of economic dependence or superior bargaining power the particular susceptibility of long-term contracts prohibition of resale at a loss or below cost prohibition of boycott unlawful pressures threats and other coercive tactics adopted by undertakings and the role of unfair competition law The analysis follows a functional method of comparative legal analysis reviewing the most relevant norms in the selected jurisdictions particularly in what concerns their goals and function in the context of their respective legal systems Special attention is paid to two specific sectors the motor vehicle and the retailing industries which have most often triggered relevant legislation and case law in the jurisdictions covered Legal scholarship in the field is also drawn upon In its clarification of the meaning of Regulation 1 2003 this book allows practitioners to fully grasp its scope The author's thorough masterful analysis of the statutory framework of Article 3 of the regulation also reveals the variety of reasons why different Member States have different competition policies on the scope of the exception to the rule of convergence and in this way provides lawyers policymakers and academics with welcome insights on how major EU jurisdictions apply European competition law

Mining and Energy Law Samantha Hepburn,2023-09-21 Mining and Energy Law is a thorough examination of the contemporary mining and energy sectors in Australia It explores the law governing the current mix of sources utilised in the Australian energy sector from petroleum and natural gas to renewable energy sources including wind and solar power

A Subject Index to Current Literature Australian Public Affairs Information Service, Indigenous Rights and Water Resource Management Katie O'Bryan,2018-10-26 In an era of climate change the need to manage our water resources effectively for future generations has become an increasingly significant challenge Indigenous management practices have been successfully used to manage inland water systems around the world for thousands of years and Indigenous people have been calling for a greater role in the management of water resources As First Peoples and as holders of important knowledge of sustainable water management practices they regard themselves as custodians and rights holders deserving of a meaningful role in decision making This book argues that a key albeit not the only means of ensuring appropriate participation in decision making about water management is for such participation to be legislatively mandated To this end the book draws on case studies in Australia and New Zealand in order to elaborate the legislative tools necessary to ensure Indigenous participation consultation and representation in the water management landscape

International Competition Law Martyn D. Taylor,2006-09-28 Should an international competition agreement be incorporated into the World Trade Organization Taylor examines this question arguing that such an agreement would be beneficial Existing initiatives towards the regulation of cross border anti competitive conduct have clear limitations that could be overcome by an agreement and the WTO would provide the optimal institutional vehicle for it At a practical level Taylor points out an international competition agreement could address under regulation and over regulation in the trade competition regulatory matrix realizing substantive benefits to international trade and competition This book identifies the appropriate content and structure for a plurilateral competition agreement and proposes a draft negotiating text with accompanying commentary and as such will be an invaluable tool for policy makers WTO negotiators competition and trade lawyers and international jurists

Making Markets in Australian Agriculture Patrick O'Keeffe,2019-01-21 This book provides a genealogical study of Australian agricultural restructuring focusing on the case study of wheat export market deregulation This policy shift was implemented in 2008 ending 60 years of statutory wheat marketing At the time policy makers claimed that market liberalisation would empower individual growers providing them with choice and freedom through uninhibited participation in markets However regional wheat markets have become concentrated and are increasingly controlled by a small number of transnational agribusiness firms which have been increasingly active in setting the policy agenda in Australian agriculture The book delves into the discursive construction of policy truths such as efficiency competition and the consumer to understand how this shift was made possible whose interests have been served and what the implications of this shift have been This book focuses on the machinations which contributed to this shift by examining the construction of knowledge values and identities which have helped to make the transition from the public to the private appear as a logical common sense solution to the challenges facing Australian agriculture The author shows how governmental technologies such as audit cost benefit analysis performance objectives and the consumer were used to make this reality operable In doing so he argues that this shift should be viewed as part of the broader restructuring of Australian society which has facilitated the transference of economic and policy making power from the public to the private Electricity Reform Abroad and U.S. Investment ,2001 This report reviews and analyzes the recent electricity reforms in Argentina Australia and the United Kingdom UK to illustrate how different models of privatization and reform have worked in practice This report also analyzes the motivations of the U S companies who have invested in the electricity industries in these countries which have become the largest targets of U S foreign investment in electricity Two calculations of foreign investment are used One is the foreign direct investment series produced by the U S Department of Commerce The other is based on transactions in electric utilities of the three countries The electricity reform and privatization experiences reviewed may offer some insight as to how the U S electricity industry might develop as a result of recent domestic reform efforts and deregulation at the state and national levels 126 refs 23 figs 27 tabs Government and the Food Industry: Economic and Political Effects of Conflict and Co-Operation L. Tim Wallace,William R. Schroder,2012-12-06 This book s purpose is to shed light on the threats and opportunities arising from the incentives and restrictions of governmental actions which food industry managers discover in their search for profits The food industry as defined here includes farmers their input suppliers processors and distributors This text explores how the private sector reacts to the stimulus of public support measures rules and regulations which are usually motivated by entirely different ends than those desired within the private sector No current single model of economic behavior as yet adequately encompasses or quantifies these complex vectors and forces Management is comprised of many factors most of which can be identified ex post but few of which can be appraised precisely ex ante The perceptual processes by which managers respond to governments are influenced by culture aptitudes individual and collective goals details of most government business relationships are discussed Few openly since management and government officials are understandably often reluctant to share the decision tree route by which trust is built and understandings are negotiated Our text differs from others in that we combine both a theoretical and experiential approach to the subject. The insights provided by the case study material give a more macro and yet realistic view than that usually offered elsewhere. We indicate the risks and dynamics of the situations faced by management while also showing the importance and strategic relevance of a solid analytical foundation for managerial purposes.
