It was never about brains or ability. His students simply didn't have the knowledge of the specific language needed to succeed. Through experimentation and research, he discovered that for any subject, there was a list of essential words that when mastered, unlocked a student's ability to progress in the subject. Lewis called this set of vocabulary the Insider's Words. When he applied these Insider's Words, the results were incredible. His students began to learn with ease. He was on his way to developing the landmark series of workbooks and applications to teach this Insider's Language to students around the world.

Modelling in Natural Sciences Tibor Müller, Harmund Müller, 2013-03-14. This book defines the wide application of the art of modelling. The main emphasis is on the imaging of dynamic processes which are analysed and subdivided into their atomic constituents by means of systems analysis. The cyclic structure and the stages of models set up are explained. The evaluation of a model's quality is regarded as a stochastic process. The aspects of grade used in different fields of sciences are brought into perspective. Thus, a quantitative concept of validity on the basis of conditional degrees of rational belief can be developed.

Chemistry in Botanical Classification: Medicine and Natural Sciences Gerd Bendz, 2013-10-14. Medicine and Natural Sciences. Chemistry in Botanical Classification contains the proceedings of the Twenty-Fifth Nobel Symposium held in Södergarn, Sweden, on August 20-25, 1973. The papers explore the chemical approach to plant classification and cover topics ranging from chemosystematics and applications of special classes of compounds to insects and plant chemotaxonomy. Biosynthetic pathways in chemical phylogeny and some aspects of organic geochemistry are also discussed. This book is comprised of 32 chapters divided into five sections. The first chapter provides an overview of the chemical approach to botanical classification with special reference to the higher taxa of Magnoliophyta. The reader is then introduced to chemosystematics and the construction of phylogenetic schemes as well as the use of a chemical character for the classification of living organisms. The following chapters focus on the chemistry of disjunct taxa, homology of biosynthetic routes, and applications of special classes of compounds such as flavonoids. The systematic distribution of ellagitannins in relation to the phylogeny and classification of the angiosperms is also considered. The final chapter describes phytochemical and biological procedures for screening of plant materials. This monograph will be of value to botanists, plant taxonomists, and chemists.
