Explain why there were improvements in medical knowledge in the years 1500 to 1700.

You may use the following information in your answer:

- Thomas Sydenham
- The Printing Press

You must also use information of your own.

One of the reasons why there were improvements in medical knowledge in the years 1500 to 1700 was because of the legislation of dissections and then individuals improving the knowledge of the human anatomy. After the reformation, people were able to find accurate designs of the human body which Galen had previously based his findings on animal body parts therefore it was inaccurate. In 1543 Andreas Vesalius, after having performed many dissections, published a book called 'De Humani Corporis Fabrica' which states that Galen had made over 300 mistakes in his findings of the anatomy of the body. Vesalius then corrected these mistakes and had detailed diagrams of the body in his book. Harvey further proved Galen's theory that blood flows both ways around the body was wrong, blood only flowed in one direction. Harvey also disproved Galen's theory that blood was made in the liver. All of these new discoveries that
