
EXPLANATORY SYNTHESIS PAPER: THE 1987 CONSTITUTION OF THE REPUBLIC OF THE PHILIPPINES- ARTICLE III Bill of Rights

Section 3: No law shall be passed abridging the freedom of speech, of expression, or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble and petition the government for redress of grievances.

The freedom of the press is a constitutionally-guaranteed right and is enshrined in Section 4 Article III which explicitly provides that "No law shall be passed abridging the freedom of speech, of expression, or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble and petition the government for redress of grievances." This constitutional right is essentially a carry-over of similar provisions in earlier constitutions as the Constitutional Commission of 1987 deemed it necessary to preserve extant Philippine and American jurisprudence on this bill of right. A significant change though is the expansion of this right to include the phrase "of expression". According to Senator Ramon Bong Revilla Jr., Freedom of the press is guaranteed by a government of free public press for its citizens and their association, extended to members of news gathering organizations, and their published reporting. It also extended to news gathering and processes involved in obtaining information for public distribution. Freedom of press implies that all people should have the right to express themselves in writing or in any other way of expression of personal opinion or creativity. The Universal Declaration of Human Rights indicates: "Everyone has the right to freedom of opinion and expression; this right includes freedom to hold opinions without interference and to seek, receive, and impart information and ideas through any media regardless of frontiers". Thus, the right to freely express one's thoughts is not without basis.

According to Kris Sarah M. Jeruta, the freedoms of expression and speech rank high in the scheme of constitutional values, as stated by the Court in Diocese of Bacolod v. Commission on Elections, G.R. No. 205728, Jan. 21, 2015. However, in Chavez v. Gonzales, G.R. No. 168338, Feb. 15, 2008, the Supreme Court explained that freedom of expression is not an absolute nor an unbridled license that gives immunity for every possible use of language and prevents the punishment of those who abuse this freedom. As such, certain types of speech such

Evidence-Based Policy Ray Pawson,2006-04-07 In this important new book Ray Pawson examines the recent spread of evidence based policy making across the Western world Few major public initiatives are mounted these days in the absence of a sustained attempt to evaluate them Programmes are tried tried and tried again and researched researched and researched again And yet it is often difficult to know which interventions and which inquiries will withstand the test of time The evident solution going by the name of evidence based policy is to take the longer view Rather than relying on one off studies it is wiser to look to the weight of evidence Accordingly it is now widely agreed the most useful data to support policy decisions will be culled from systematic reviews of all the existing research in particular policy domains This is the consensual starting point for Ray Pawson s latest foray into the world of evaluative research But this is social science after all and harmony prevails only in the first chapter Thereafter Pawson presents a devastating critique of the dominant approach to systematic review namely the meta analytic approach as sponsored by the Cochrane and Campbell collaborations In its place is commended an approach that he terms realist synthesis On this vision the real purpose of systematic review is better to understand programme theory so that policies can be properly targeted and developed to counter an ever changing landscape of social problems The book will be essential reading for all those who loved or loathed the arguments developed in Realistic Evaluation Sage 1997 It offers a complete blueprint for research synthesis supported by detailed illustrations and worked examples from across the policy waterfront It will be of especial interest to policy makers practitioners researchers and students working in health education employment social care criminal justice regeneration and welfare Annual Reports in Organic Synthesis — 1974 Louis S. Hegedus,Stephen R. Wilson,2013-10-22 Annual Reports in Organic Synthesis 1974 presents a collection of 45 abstracted chemistry journals that cover organic synthesis This book is comprised of eight chapters that cover different aspects of organic synthesis such as reaction types and methods The first three chapters tackle carbon carbon bond forming reactions oxidations and reductions Chapter IV discusses synthesis of heterocycles and Chapter V covers the use of protecting groups Chapter VI talks about useful synthetic preparations Chapters VII and VIII cover the miscellaneous reactions and reviews The information provided by this text will be most useful to organic chemists Descartes-Agonistes John Schuster,2012-10-23 This book reconstructs key aspects of the early career of Descartes from 1618 to 1633 that is up through the point of his composing his first system of natural philosophy Le Monde in 1629 33 It focuses upon the overlapping and intertwined development of Descartes projects in physico mathematics analytical mathematics universal method and finally systematic corpuscular mechanical natural philosophy The concern is not simply with the conceptual and technical aspects of these projects but with Descartes agendas within them and his construction and presentation of his intellectual identity in relation to them Descartes technical projects agendas and senses of identity shifted over time entangled and displayed great successes and deep failures as he morphed from a mathematically competent Jesuit trained graduate in neo Scholastic Aristotelianism to aspiring prophet of a systematised corpuscular mechanism passing through stages of being a committed physico mathematicus advocate of a putative universal mathematics and projector of a grand methodological dream In all three dimensions projects agendas and identity concerns the young Descartes struggled and contended with himself and with real or virtual peers and competitors hence the title Descartes Agonistes

Individuation, Process, and Scientific Practices Otávio Bueno, Ruey-Lin Chen, Melinda Bonnie Fagan, 2018-10-19 What things count as individuals and how do we individuate them It is a classic philosophical question often tackled from the perspective of analytic metaphysics This volume proposes that there is another channel by which to approach individuation from that of scientific practices From this perspective the question then becomes How do scientists individuate things and therefore count them as individuals This volume collects the work of philosophers of science to engage with this central philosophical conundrum from a new angle highlighting the crucial topic of experimental individuation and building upon recent pioneering work in the philosophy of science An introductory chapter foregrounds the problem of individuation arguing it should be considered prior to the topic of individuality The following chapters address individuation and individuality from a variety of perspectives with prominent themes being the importance of experimentation individuation as a process and pluralism in individuation s criteria Contributions examine individuation in a wide range of sciences including stem cell biology particle physics and community ecology Other chapters examine the metaphysics of individuation its bearing on realism antirealism debates and interrogate epistemic aspects of individuation in scientific practice In exploring individuation from the philosophy of biology physics and other scientific subjects this volume ultimately argues for the possibility of several criteria of individuation upending the tenets of traditional metaphysics It provides insights for philosophers of science but also for scientists interested in the conceptual foundations of their work

Annual Reports in Organic Synthesis—1977 R. Bryan Miller, L. G. Wade, 2013-10-22 Annual Reports in Organic Synthesis 1977 presents an annual review of synthetically useful information that would prove beneficial to nearly all organic chemists both specialist and nonspecialist in synthesis It should help relieve some of the information storage burden of the specialist and should aid the nonspecialist who is seeking help with a specific problem to become rapidly aware of recent synthetic advances In producing this volume the editors abstracted 47 primary chemistry journals selecting useful synthetic advances All reactions and methods which are new synthetically useful and reasonably general are included Each entry is comprised primarily of structures accompanied by very few comments The purpose of this is to aid the reader in rapidly scanning the book Chapters I III are organized by reaction type and constitute the major part of the book Chapter IV deals with methods of synthesizing heterocyclic systems Chapter V covers the use of new protecting groups Chapter VI is divided into three main parts and covers those synthetically useful transformations that do not fit easily into the first three chapters The first part deals only with functional group synthesis The second part covers ring expansion and contraction and the third part involves useful multistep sequences

The Darwinian Tradition in Context Richard G. Delisle, 2017-12-29 The main goal of this book is to put the Darwinian tradition in context by raising questions such as How should it be defined Did it interact with other research programs Were there any research programs that developed largely independently of the Darwinian tradition Accordingly the contributing authors explicitly explore the nature of the relationship between the Darwinian tradition and other research programs running in parallel In the wake of the Synthetic Theory of Evolution which was established throughout the 1930s 1940s and 1950s historians and philosophers of biology devoted considerable attention to the Darwinian tradition i e linking Charles Darwin to mid Twentieth Century developments in evolutionary biology Since then more recent developments in evolutionary biology have challenged in part or entirely the heritage of the Darwinian tradition Not surprisingly this has in turn been followed by a historiographical recalibration on the part of historians and philosophers regarding other research programs and traditions in evolutionary biology In order to acknowledge this shift the papers in this book have been arranged on the basis of two main threads Part I A perspective that views Darwinism as either being originally pluralistic or having acquired such a pluralistic nature through modifications and borrowings over time Part II A perspective blurring the boundaries between non Darwinian and Darwinian traditions either by contending that Darwinism itself was never quite as Darwinian as previously assumed or that non Darwinian traditions took on board various Darwinian components when not fertilizing Darwinism directly Between a Darwinism reaching out to other research programs and non Darwinian programs reaching out to Darwinism the least that can be said is that this interweaving of intellectual threads blurs the historiographical field This volume aims to open vital new avenues for approaching and reflecting on the development of evolutionary biology
