Can you name economic organizations that serve at a global level? How do they contribute to the economic development of nations across the world? What influences and pressures are created by these global organizations upon the developing countries?

Three key institutions serve as economic organizations of the world. They are the World Bank, the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and the World Trade Organization (WTO). All three organizations trace their origins to the end of World War II (1939-1945), when the United States and the UK decided to set up new organizations and rules for the global economy. Since then, these three economic organizations have played a large role across the world. The following subsections highlight each of them.

World Bank

What roles are played by the World Bank in developing countries? Can you cite some examples from Ethiopia?

The World Bank is a specialized agency of the United Nations. It was established in 1944. It grants loans to member nations for the purpose of reconstruction and development. Officially, it is called the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (IBRD).
