deficient Based on a rich source of ethnographic data and employing a frame analysis approach it investigates the ways in which this native speaker framing influenced the construction and operation of a Japanese university EFL program While the program appeared to be free of explicit expressions of native speakerism such as discrimination against teachers this study found that the practices of the program were underpinned by implicitly native speakerist assumptions based on the stereotyping of Japanese students and the Japanese education system The book provides a new perspective on debates around native speakerism by examining how the dominant framing of a program may still be influenced by the ideology even in cases where overt signs of native speakerism appear to be absent
