Dr. Donald Johanson, Kate Wong

Human Legacy Modern Era Chapter 14:

Holt World History: Human Legacy Holt Rinehart & Winston, 2008 Global Life Systems Robert P. Clark, 2000

Humans did not begin as a global species we had to expand to become one And we could not have done so without other living organisms becoming global along with us Robert P Clark develops in this book a global life systems perspective that delineates how biological forces mutually reinforce one another and what their globalization has meant for both human society and the biosphere While he resists biological determinism Clark traces interconnected developments among population disease agriculture trade fuels and other life systems to more thoroughly explore and elucidate the globalization of human endeavors within an ever evolving context of nature and environment His lucid and richly documented book offers a fresh look at social evolution and a broader basis for understanding the contemporary context for global change Wadi

The Vortex Frank Uekötter, 2024-04-18 Environmental challenges are defining the twenty first century To fully understand ongoing debates about our current crises climate change loss of biological diversity pollution extinction resource woes means revisiting their origins in all their complexity With this ambitious highly original contribution to the environmental history of global modernity Frank Uekötter considers the many ways humans have had an impact on their physical environment throughout history Ours is not a one way trajectory to sudden collapse he argues but rather death by a thousand cuts The many paths we ve forged to arrive in our current predicament from agriculture to industry to infrastructure must be considered collectively if we are to stay afloat in what Uekötter describes as a vortex a powerful metaphor for the flow of history capturing the momentum and the many crosscurrents that swept people and environments along His book invites us to look at environmental challenges from multiple perspectives including all the twists and turns that have helped to create the mess we find ourselves in Uekötter has written a world history for an age where things are falling apart where we know what lies ahead and are equipped with the right tools technological and otherwise and plenty of experience to deal with environmental challenges but somehow fail to get our affairs in order

Time in Contemporary Intellectual Thought P.J.N. Baert, 1999-12-09 In this book fifteen authors from a wide spectrum of disciplines ranging from the natural sciences to the arts offer assessments of the way time enters their work the definition and uses of time that have proved most productive or problematic and the lessons their subjects can offer for our understanding of time beyond the classroom and laboratory walls The authors have tried without sacrificing analytical rigour to make their contribution accessible to a cross disciplinary readership Each chapter reviews time s past and present application in its respective field considers the practical and logical problems that remain and assesses the methods researchers are using to escape or resolve them Particular attention is paid to ways in which the technical treatment of time for problem solving and model building around specific phenomena call on or clash with our intuitive perceptions of what time is and does The spans of time considered range from the fractions of seconds it takes unstable particles to disintegrate to the millions of years required for one species to give way to another Like all central conceptual words time is understood on several levels By inviting input from a broad range of disciplines the book aims to provide a fuller understanding of those levels and of the common ground that lurks at their base Much agreement emerges not only on the nature of the problems time presents to modern intellectual thought but also on the clues that recent discoveries may offer towards possible solutions The Silk Road Chronicles
