Management 6th Edition Robbins And Coulter Au:

A New History of Management Stephen Cummings, Todd Bridgman, John Hassard, Michael Rowlinson, 2017-09-19 Existing narratives about how we should organize are built upon and reinforce a concept of good management derived from what is assumed to be a fundamental need to increase efficiency. But this assumption is based on a presentist monocultural and generally limited view of management's past. A New History of Management disputes these foundations. By reassessing conventional perspectives on past management theories and providing a new critical outline of present day management, it highlights alternative conceptions of good management focused on ethical aims, sustainability, and alternative views of good practice. From this new historical perspective, existing assumptions can be countered and simplistic views disputed, offering a platform from which graduate students, researchers, and reflective practitioners can develop alternative approaches for managing and organizing in the twenty-first century.

Strategic Safety Management in Construction and Engineering Patrick X. W. Zou, Riza Yosia Sunindijo, 2015-06-15 Although the construction and engineering sector makes important contributions to the economic, social, and environmental objectives of a nation, it has a notorious reputation for being an unsafe industry in which to work. Despite the fact that safety performance in the industry has improved, injuries and fatalities still occur frequently. To address this, the industry needs to evolve further by integrating safety into all decision-making processes. Strategic Safety Management in Construction and Engineering takes a broad view of safety from a strategic decision-making and management perspective with a particular focus on the need to balance and integrate science and art when implementing safety management. The principles covered here include the economics of safety, safety climate, and culture; skills for safety training and learning; safety in design; risk management; building information modelling; and safety research methods and the research-practice nexus. They are integrated into a strategic safety management framework which comprises strategy development, implementation, and evaluation. Practical techniques are included to apply the principles in the context of the construction and engineering industry and projects. Case studies are also provided to demonstrate the localised context and applications of the principles and techniques in practice.
