Lebow,Steven A. Halverson,1999 To enhance the appearance of the treated product a stain is often sprayed onto western hemlock lumber Tsuga heterophylla Raf Sarg prior to treatment with chromated copper arsenate CCA C There is concern that this stain might interfere with the penetration and retention of CCA C during the subsequent pressure treatment This study compared the penetration and retention of CCA C in prestained and nonstained end matched specimens of western hemlock lumber Results indicate that the weight gain retention of CCA C solution was slightly but significantly impaired by the prestain treatment Assayed concentration levels of copper chromium and arsenic detected in the treated wood were also slightly less in the prestained samples than in the nonstained samples especially for the inner assay zone No significant difference in average penetration was observed between the prestained and nonstained specimens although two of the prestained specimens did have much less penetration than did their nonstained counterparts The differences in treatability noted in this study were too small to be of concern in commercial practice Chemical news and Journal of physical science ,1881
