Practicing Writing Thomas M. Masters, 2004-10-24 Practicing Writing examines a pivotal era in the history of the most ubiquitous and possibly most problematic course in North American colleges and universities the required first year writing course generally known as freshman English Thomas Masters's focus is the mid twentieth century beginning with the returning waves of World War II veterans attending college on the GI Bill He then traces the education reforms that took place in the late 1950s after the launch of Sputnik and the establishment of composition as a separate discipline in 1963 This study draws upon archives at three midwestern schools that reflect a range of higher education options Wheaton a small sectarian liberal arts college Northwestern a large private university and Illinois a large public university Practicing Writing gives voice to those whose work is often taken for granted or forgotten in other studies of the subject freshman English students and their instructors Masters examines students papers professors letters and course descriptions and draws upon interviews conducted with teachers to present the practitioners points of view Unlike other studies of the subject which have tended to focus more on the philosophy theory and ideology of teaching composition and rhetoric Masters reveals freshman English to be a practice based phenomenon with a durable ideological apparatus By reexamining texts that had previously been considered insignificant he reveals the substance of first year composition courses and the reasons for their durability

The English Department W. Ross Winterowd, 1998 To understand the history of English W Ross Winterowd insists one must understand how literary studies composition rhetoric studies and influential textbooks interrelate Stressing the interrelationship among these three forces Winterowd presents a history of English studies in the university since the Enlightenment Winterowd's history is unique in three ways First it tells the whole story of English studies it does not separate the history of literary studies from that of composition rhetoric studies nor can it if it is going to be an authentic history Second it traces the massive influence on English studies exerted by textbooks such as Adventures in Literature Understanding Poetry English in Action and the Harbrace College Handbook Finally Winterowd himself is very much a part of the story a partisan with more than forty years of service to the discipline not simply a disinterested scholar searching for the truth After demonstrating that literary studies and literary scholars are products of Romantic epistemology and values Winterowd further invites controversy by reinterpreting the Romantic legacy inherited by English departments His reinterpretation of major literary figures and theory too invites discussion possibly argument And by directly contradicting current histories of composition rhetoric that allow for no points of contact with literature Winterowd intensifies the argument by explaining the development of composition rhetoric from the standpoint of literature and literary theory Winterowd has produced a work of belles lettres that is both scholarly and autobiographical a work unique in English department literature
