Don't Tell the Boss! Dmitry Chernov,Didier Sornette,Giovanni Sansavini,Ali Ayoub,2023-01-20 After a major disaster when investigators are piecing together the story of what happened a striking fact often emerges before disaster struck some people in the organization involved were aware of dangerous conditions that had the potential to escalate to a critical level But for a variety of reasons this crucial information did not reach decision makers So the organization moved ever closer to catastrophe effectively unaware of the possible threat despite the fact that some of its employees could see it coming What is the problem with communication about risk in an organization and why does this problem exist What stops people in organizations or project teams from freely reporting and discussing critical risks This book seeks to answer these questions starting from a deep analysis of 20 disasters where the concealment of risks played a major part These case studies are drawn from around the world and span a range of industries civil nuclear power coal oil and gas production hydropower energy metals and mining space exploration transport finance retail manufacturing and even the response of governments to wars famines and epidemics Together case studies give an insight into why people hesitate to report risks and even when they do why their superiors often prefer to ignore the news The book reviews existing research on the challenges of voice and silence in organizations This helps to explain more generally why people dread passing on bad news to others and why in the workplace they prefer to keep quiet about unpleasant facts or potential risks when they are talking to superiors and colleagues The discussion section of the book includes important examples of concealment within the Chinese state hierarchy as well as by leading epidemiologists and governments in the West during the novel coronavirus outbreak in Wuhan in 2019 2020 The full picture of the very early stage of the COVID 19 pandemic remains unclear and further research is obviously needed to better understand what motivated some municipal provincial and national officials in China as well as Western counterparts to obfuscate facts in their internal communications about many issues associated with the outbreak

Injunctions in Private Law David Capper,2024-08-06 Injunctions in Private Law presents the key principles rules and case law relating to the granting of injunctions as remedies in private law This authoritative work addresses a range of legal infringements namely nuisance trespass invasion of privacy breach of contract and the infringement of intellectual property rights

Privacy, Technology, and the Criminal Process Andrew Roberts,Joe Purshouse,Jason Bosland,2023-07-28 This collection considers the implications for privacy of the utilisation of new technologies in the criminal process In most modern liberal democratic states privacy is considered a basic right Many national constitutions and almost all international human rights instruments include some guarantee of privacy Yet privacy interests appear to have had relatively little influence on criminal justice policy making The threat that technology poses to these interests demands critical re evaluation of current law policy and practice This is provided by the contributions to this volume They offer legal criminological philosophical and comparative perspectives The book will be of interest to legal and criminological scholars and postgraduate students Its interdisciplinary methodology and focus on the intersection between law and technology make it also relevant for philosophers and those interested in science and technology studies

Cognitive Impairment and Physical Function in Older Adults José Daniel Jiménez García,Daniel Velázquez Díaz,Diego A. Bonilla,Antonio Martinez- Amat,Richard Kreider,Francisco Álvarez Salvago,2025-08-20 The rapid growth of the aging population is related with prevalent age related cognitive impairments usually associated with problems in quality of life and increased cost of healthcare Older adults with neurocognitive disorders have been identified as having a high risk of falling. Nonetheless, the relationship of neurocognitive disorders with physical function has been poorly studied. Currently, there are numerous studies that have analyzed the association between the cognitive status and physical function in older people. In addition, the relationship of cognitive status with serious problems such as sarcopenia and the risk of falls. In this line, there are RCTs that are being offered that have demonstrated efficacy on physical and cognitive improvement in older people such as multicomponent exercise programs, qigong training, and resistance exercise programs.
