INSTALLATION MANUAL

Connecting the Units

Note

- 1 This unit is to be connected with a Pioneer factory-supplied Pioneer speaker wiring kit or equivalent. Other speakers will not connect correctly due to the built-in crossover network.
- 2 To prevent damage to the internal circuit, be sure to disconnect the 12-volt power before beginning installation.
- 3 Read all the instructions for the speaker wires, including the power wires and ground wires, from their respective owners' manuals.
- 4 Before connecting the wires, always turn off the power to both the car stereo and the speaker wires to prevent damage. Turn on the power to the car stereo and the speaker wires, and then turn off the power to the car stereo and the speaker wires. Do not connect wires in place first, and then turn on the power to the car stereo. If the insulation of the wiring melts, it may burn a hole through the plastic shell resulting in a short路. This could damage the car stereo and cause a fire hazard.
- 5 Do not measure any load if you do not know where they lead to, such as speakers.
- 6 Never measure the speaker output to determine the impedance of the speaker supply load of the car and bypass the car stereo. The stereo requires the load to be the speaker's nominal impedance.
- 7 When replacing fuse, be sure to use only those of the same specification as the ones and the total rating is
- 8 Insert a longer HIFIBUY speaker terminal screw into the terminal block and firmly tighten it by hand and slightly tighten with a screwdriver.
- 9 Connect one end of the speaker wires to the speaker terminals with aluminum crimping or 100% tin wire connection. If the speaker terminals are soldered, then solder them firmly and evenly to the speaker wires using 100% rosin solder at the joints.
- 10 When the power is turned on, connect the speaker wires through the main board and then connect the speaker wires to the speaker terminals after connecting the car stereo. Otherwise, there will be a short路 between the speaker wires and the main board.

- 11 When connecting power wires, it is highly recommended to use a separate power source for the car stereo, such as the cigarette lighter receptacle. Do not connect the power wires from the power source of the car stereo. This will increase noise and interference.
- 12 To avoid short路, never connect the ground lead back to the speaker wires. Instead, connect the ground lead to the metal body of the car. Then, in a event of a short路, the connection of the parts can be easily cut.
- 13 To prevent damage to the speaker, the input side of the PIONEER car stereo's speaker terminals must be connected to the speaker wires of the same color correctly.
- 14 If the speaker terminal is white, the driver terminals of the speaker must be connected to the speaker terminal of the same color. If the connection is incorrect, the speaker may be damaged. Please refer to the wiring diagram for the correct colors (Fig. 1).

Connecting the Rear Unit (Fig. 2)

- 15 Do not apply the speaker wires to other parts, such as the antenna terminal or the power source terminal, other than the speaker terminals. When connecting the speaker wires, connect them to the speaker terminals, ignoring the other terminals of both speaker and stereo units that share the same function.

- 16 Apply the speaker wires to other parts, such as the antenna terminal or the power source terminal, other than the speaker terminals. When connecting the speaker wires, connect them to the speaker terminals, ignoring the other terminals of both speaker and stereo units that share the same function.
