From Oxidative Stress to Cognitive Decline - Towards Novel Therapeutic Approaches Touqeer Ahmed, Nady Braidy, 2023-09-01 Oxidative stress plays multiple roles in the pathobiology of several neurodegenerative disorders and

Alzheimer's disease in particular. Increased oxidative stress in the brain is suggested to be associated with aging, greater amounts of easily oxidizable unsaturated fatty acids, higher utilization of oxygen by the brain, mitochondrial-derived free radicals, calcium homeostasis, and glutamate-induced excitotoxicity. Moreover, environmental chemicals, toxins, heavy metals, and an imbalanced diet might increase oxidative stress, potentially leading to a decrease in cognitive functions. Cellular health is also dependent on the levels of nicotinamide adenine dinucleotide (NAD). It has been well documented that NAD is an important coenzyme for over 400 different oxidoreductases and turns out to be a relevant factor to the oxidative stress in the brain. Since the last two decades, NAD has been shown to be more than a mere regulator of metabolism but rather may play a key role in the aging process. NAD, along with sirtuins, are important for various neurophysiological functions, and depletion of NAD may be associated with compromised physiological and cognitive functions. To protect the brain from oxidative stress, a modest endogenous protective system works in the brain through dedicated enzymatic machinery. Key enzymes are superoxide dismutase and catalase, which provide protection against oxidative stress. Aging, various neurological disorders, and chronic inflammation might also affect the levels of these protective enzymes and reduce their levels. Natural compounds, including polyphenols, can offer protection through NAD and various other mechanisms. Based on these factors, it is becoming more and more clear that oxidative stress and its devastating effects on cognitive decline represent a major health issue in neurobiology. There is a need to identify potential compounds and therapeutic targets for mitigating oxidative stress and/or to strengthen the protective endogenous mechanisms. Novel approaches aiming to support and provide protective mechanisms in the brain will represent a great success in therapeutics. We welcome all article types focusing on the analysis and investigation of oxidative stress originated from different sources and its impairing effects on the brain. We will also accept studies investigating naturally occurring compounds, standard medications, and nutraceuticals that have an impact on oxidative stress, NAD metabolism, and medical and health applications. For this, the aim of this Research Topic is to provide novel insights on oxidative stress induced by any mechanism, impact on brain health, and on the strengthening of brain protective mechanisms supporting cognitive functions.

Essential Guide to Neurodegenerative Disorders Wael Mohamed, 2024-11-24. Handbook of Neurodegenerative Disorders: Mechanism, Diagnostic, and Therapeutic Advances provides a comprehensive review on the current biomedical studies aimed at identifying the underlying causes of neurodegeneration. This book reviews the most recent developments in molecular and cellular processes altered during neurodegeneration. Divided into four parts, the first covers the mechanism of cell death in neurodegeneration. The second section reviews the recent progress in gene and gene products in neurodegeneration, including Huntington's disease, Parkinson's disease, Friedreich's ataxia, and spinal muscular atrophy. The final sections cover the current and future diagnostic techniques of neurodegenerative disorders along with therapeutic approaches. Reviews big data and neurodegeneration disorders, including gene mapping. Examines the structural basis of protein assembly into amyloid filaments in neurodegenerative disease. Covers
