Military Balance In Southeast Asia:

Military Balance in South East Asia Claire Taylor, Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Library, 2011 Europe and Southeast Asia Anthony Reid, 1982 Military Basing and the U.S./Soviet Military Balance in Southeast Asia George Kilpatrick Tanham, Alvin H. Bernstein, 1989 In this work experts in the Soviet American and Asian military forces have contributed individual papers dealing with the political and economic effects that the Soviet and American military presence has initiated in Southeast Asia Topics include military strategy presence and security International Relations in Southeast Asia Donald E. Weatherbee, 2009 This balanced comprehensive guide to Southeast Asian politics offers a sensible but nondogmatic realist approach to the region's international relations In this revised second edition Donald E Weatherbee lucidly explains the dynamics of the Southeast Asian subsystem as a struggle for autonomy in pursuit of national interests He explores three important questions the answers to which will shape the future Southeast Asia Will democratic regimes transform international relations in Southeast Asia Will national leaders succeed in reinventing ASEAN as a more effective collaborative mechanism Finally how will the evolving Chinese position balancing and perhaps displacing the United States as Asia's great power affect Southeast Asia's struggle for autonomy Military Modernisation in Southeast Asia after the Cold War Shang-Su Wu, 2024-04-01 Southeast Asian countries represent a wide range of approaches to military modernisation due to their great diversity in politics economies geography and other factors Bounded by the Pacific and Indian Oceans and located between China and India is the setting for the geostrategic impacts of military modernisation in Southeast Asian countries Differing from previous research focused on military acquisition this book additionally covers retention of assets and carefully examines the ageing issues that affect readiness and capabilities In doing so it provides a comprehensive view of military modernisation This book also compares each country's situation in the region in terms of military strength and security challenges to elaborate on the geostrategic impacts of military modernisation The ten cases of military modernisation in the post Cold War context provide rich content for readers to explore the evolution of military modernisation in developing countries after 1991 This book sheds light on security studies of Southeast Asia and is a useful resource for academic researchers policy makers and defence practitioners Defence Spending in Southeast Asia Chin Kin Wah, 1987 This volume identifies the pattern of military spending in the Southeast Asian region over the past ten to fifteen years and provides explanations for the variations in spending rates Two overview essays evaluate the role of threat perceptions and systemic variables on the shaping of defence spending while a third examines the methodological problems involved in assessing defence expenditures In the case studies that follow eight Southeast Asian countries are looked at systematically to see how their heterogeneous defence spending patterns are shaped by factors such as the geopolitical environment the sense of threat and vulnerability the decision making structures the military procurement patterns and external affiliations The Arms Race in Asia Andrew T.H. Tan, 2013-12-13 This book is the first systematic examination of the emerging arms race in Asia The global trade in arms is to a large degree underpinned by the strong demand for arms in Asia and the Middle East the two largest arms export markets in the world Of these two regions Asia has become particularly significant led by the emergence of China and India as major powers It is therefore not surprising that the rapid military modernisation in Asia accompanied by significant increases in the size and sophistication of armed forces has generated attention as to its trends key characteristics causes and implications This phenomenon which has become evident since the end of the Cold War has also been widely described as an Asian arms race This book evaluates the key conceptual ideas which can shed light on this phenomenon as well as examining the complex mix of internal external and technological factors that have led to its emergence The volume explores the way in which the arms race is leading ultimately to three distinctive blocs in the emerging geostrategic landscape a loose bloc of US allies in the region a counter bloc of potential US adversaries and a neutral bloc of states with industrial age armed forces whose allegiances will vary according to circumstances and geostrategic developments The Arms Race in Asia concludes that if the emerging arms race is left unchecked it is likely that Asia will increasingly become a region of instability marked by conflicts and interstate wars The book will be of great interest to students of Asian politics strategic studies defence studies security studies and IR in general

Military Basing and the U.S./Soviet Military Balance in Southeast Asia George Kilpatrick Tanham, Alvin H. Bernstein, 1989 In this work experts in the Soviet American and Asian military forces have contributed individual papers dealing with the political and economic effects that the Soviet and American military presence has initiated in Southeast Asia Topics include military strategy presence and security Dangerous Flashpoints in East Asia: The Military Build-up Saghir Iqbal, 2018-01-16 Major changes in East Asia have placed the region near the top of the World's strategic agenda East Asia has until recently experienced the fastest regional economic growth rate in the world for many years Economic co operation has been flourishing and economic interests have become the major reason in reshaping East Asian international relations However there have also been changes in the security environment due to many factors such as the reduction of US forces in East Asia the disintegration of the Soviet Union the decline of the Soviet Union's presence in the region had led to renewed attention to traditional and potential rivalries among the major East Asian powers and the concern of China's hegemonistic ambitions

Soldiers and Politics in Southeast Asia J. Stephen Hoadley, The Cold War brought about increasing interest from scholars in the politics of national development and in the case of civilian led underdeveloped countries the effects of military insurgency Two ideologically opposed positions evolved around the phenomenon of military insurgency The position of technological conservatism favors military insurgency in previously civilian led governments on the presumption that it encourages stability efficiency and importantly anti communism The revisionist position on the other hand is highly critical of technological conservatism especially with regard to its political fervor J Stephen Hoadley asserts that the relevant question is not one of ideological choices rather it is whether a military or civilian led government is better suited for the political and economic development of a particular underdeveloped nation Soldiers and Politics in Southeast Asia introduces the reader to the sequences of events that led to military predominance in Thailand Burma South Vietnam Indonesia and Cambodia Hoadley uses the data of five case studies to test and quantify his hypotheses The author characterizes governments controlled by the military as performing slightly less well than civilian led governments in Southeast Asia Hoadley argues that while they are demonstrably less capable in responding to outside and domestic challenges there is little difference between military and civilian led governments in the areas of establishing stability and maintaining law The book concludes that neither the conservative nor radical views are fully correct as to the effects of military led governments on development
