Without reporting, hate crime remains hidden

Millions experience violence because of racism & intolerance. It may be because of their skin colour due to their ethnic or immigration background. But it may also be due to their religion, sexual orientation or a disability.

Some groups experience 2x as much violence as the general population.

Up to 9 in 10 do not report attacks anywhere. Most think nothing would change if they reported it, say it is too difficult to report or they do not trust the police.

Implementation of the Right of Disabled People to Independent Living Great Britain: Parliament: Joint Committee on Human Rights,2012-03 This report discusses the implementation of the right of disabled people to independent living in the context of the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities UNCRPD which was ratified by the UK in 2009 It draws attention to a number of significant human rights issues including the need for freestanding legislation to protect the right to independent living in UK law the effect of current reforms to benefits and services on the ability of disabled people to enjoy independent living the role played by the UNCRPD in policy development and decision making at all levels of government the use of equality impact assessments the effects of devolution on implementation of the UNCRPD and hate crime The right to independent living does not exist as a freestanding right in UK law Although it is protected and promoted to some extent by a matrix of rights the Committee believes that this is not enough It argues that the Government and other interested parties should immediately assess the need for and feasibility of legislation to establish independent living as a freestanding right The Committee finds that reforms to benefits and services risk leaving disabled people without the support they need to live independently It also finds that the Government had not conducted an assessment of the cumulative impact of current reforms on disabled people This report urges them do so and to report on the extent to which these reforms are enabling them and local authorities to comply with their obligations under the UNCRPD
