Federated Defense In Asia Csis Reports:

Federated Defense in Asia Michael J. Green, Kathleen H. Hicks, Zack Cooper, 2014-12-05 This report is the first regional study in the CSIS Federated Defense series The Federated Defense Project aims to shift the paradigm with key allies and partners from capacity building to a federated approach that would expand regional security and prosperity by joining regional allies and partners together in the pursuit of shared security objectives across the conflict spectrum Federated defense should include forward thinking strategies for how to develop and share capabilities and capacity thereby more deeply integrating the US military with its allies and partners In this report the CSIS project team highlights six potential federated initiatives in the areas of humanitarian assistance and disaster relief information and intelligence sharing maritime security undersea warfare missile defense and cyber security Federated approaches such as these are vital to developing and integrating Asian security capabilities to manage emerging security challenges Federated Defense in the Middle East Jon

B. Alterman, Kathleen H. Hicks, 2015-10-01 This study examines the potential for a federated defense approach to U S action in the Middle East the constraints to closer military cooperation in the region and specific capability areas that would benefit from federated defense Stabilizing the Middle East requires continued attention and investment from the United States and its global allies and partners Federated defense involves building partner capabilities in a way that shares the burden of providing security in a more effective and efficient manner Federated defense would over time create partner capabilities that augment and complement U S capabilities Doing so requires identifying discrete areas of cooperation between the United States and its allies and partners that would leverage partner capabilities in pursuing common security objectives

Theater Missile Defense (TMD) in East Asia Lars Assmann, 2007 As East Asia is entering the 21st Century Japan in reassessing its security environment and thus its strategic calculus is on the verge of deploying latest jointly researched theater missile defenses TMD to counter the threat of ballistic and cruise missiles In parallel the People s Republic of China is constantly modernizing its ballistic missile forces and is gearing up for a possible contingency with its self proclaimed high tech adversaries This work shows what drives Japan to deploy theater missile defenses and how the People s Republic of China is poised to be reacting to it Institutional Foundations of Federated Defense Stephanie Sanok Kostro, Rhys

McCormick, 2015-01-22 This report focuses on the institutional foundations that enable or at times hinder federated approaches to defense Successful defense collaboration in a budget constrained environment is predicated on the ability and willingness of the United States to provide assistance and or equipment to allies and partners Accordingly the report describes the context for refining US institutional foundations as well as findings in key issue areas such as priorities strategic guidance foreign military sales export controls technology security and foreign disclosure and acquisitions and requirements processes The report also includes actionable recommendations on how the United States and its partners could integrate their defense capabilities in support of shared interests Nominations Before the Senate Armed

Services Committee, First Session, 107th Congress United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Armed Services,1961 The Future of US Global Power S. Brown,2012-12-14 Dispelling the myth of decline Stuart Brown argues that the US continues to enjoy the economic political cultural and military underpinnings befitting a pre eminent global power He provides an analytical tour through the major domestic and foreign policy issues that will impact the United States future position and role in the global system United States Force Posture in the United States Pacific Command Area of Responsibility United States. Congress. House. Committee on Armed Services. Subcommittee on Readiness,2013 By Other Means Part I Kathleen H. Hicks,Alice Hunt Friend,2019-10-04 The United States is being confronted by the liabilities of its strength Competitors are finding avenues for threatening U S interests without triggering escalation Their approaches lie in the contested arena between routine statecraft and open warfare the gray zone The United States has yet to articulate a comprehensive approach to deterring competitors in the gray zone A concrete and actionable campaign plan is needed to deal with the gray zone challenge in order to do so the United States must identify and employ a broad spectrum of tools and concepts to deter and if needed to compete and win contestations in the gray zone

Asia-Pacific Rebalance 2025 Michael Green,Kathleen Hicks,Mark F. Cancian,2016-02-04 In 2015 Congress tasked the Department of Defense to commission an independent assessment of U S military strategy and force posture in the Asia Pacific as well as that of U S allies and partners over the next decade This CSIS study fulfills that congressional requirement The authors assess U S progress to date and recommend initiatives necessary to protect U S interests in the Pacific Command area of responsibility through 2025 Four lines of effort are highlighted 1 Washington needs to continue aligning Asia strategy within the U S government and with allies and partners 2 U S leaders should accelerate efforts to strengthen ally and partner capability capacity resilience and interoperability 3 the United States should sustain and expand U S military presence in the Asia Pacific region and 4 the United States should accelerate development of innovative capabilities and concepts for U S forces Nominations Before the Senate Armed Services Committee, First Session, 108th Congress United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Armed Services,2005
