A Comparative History of Commerce and Industry, Volume II David E. McNabb, 2016-01-26 A Comparative History of Commerce and Industry Volume II offers a subjective review of how the cultural social and economic institutions of commerce and industry evolved in industrialized nations to produce the institution we now know as business enterprise

The Odyssey of the Nigerian Woman Oluwakemi Abiodun Adesina, Aisha Balarabe Bawa, Mutiat Titilope Oladejo, 2023-12-07 This book explores the roles that Nigerian women have played since pre colonial times in shaping the culture customs and values of the different societies that now constitute parts of the modern Nigerian state The contributions gathered here provide engaging explanations of different aspects of Nigerian life highlighting the effects of patriarchy colonialism industry and international policies on women in Africa s most populous country This book represents a major contribution to African women s history and gender studies globally and will appeal to students and scholars of women s history and gender interested in understanding life and its challenges in the Global South

The Decarbonization Imperative Michael Lenox, Rebecca Duff, 2021-10-19 Time is of the essence Climate change looms as a malignant force that will reshape our economy and society for generations to come If we are going to avoid the worst effects of climate change we are going to need to effectively decarbonize the global economy by 2050 This doesn t mean a modest or even a drastic improvement in fuel efficiency standards for automobiles It means 100 percent of the cars on the road being battery powered or powered by some other non carbon emitting powertrain It means 100 percent of our global electricity needs being met by renewables and other non carbon emitting sources such as nuclear power It means electrifying the global industrials sector and replacing carbon intensive chemical processes with green alternatives eliminating scope one emissions emissions in production across all industries particularly steel cement petrochemicals which are the backbone of the global economy It means sustainable farming while still feeding a growing global population Responding to the existential threat of climate change Michael Lenox and Rebecca Duff propose a radical reconfiguration of the industries contributing the most and most harmfully to this planetary crisis Disruptive innovation and a particular calibration of industry dynamics will be key to this change The authors analyze precisely what this might look like for specific sectors of the world economy ranging from agriculture to industrials and building energy and transportation and examine the possible challenges and obstacles to introducing a paradigm shift in each one With regards to existent business practices and products how much and what kind of transformation can be achieved The authors assert that markets are critical to achieving the needed change and that they operate within a larger scale of institutional rules and norms Lenox and Duff conclude with an analysis of policy interventions and strategies that could move us toward clean tech and decarbonization by 2050

History of Education Policymaking in India, 1947-2016 R. V. Vaidyanatha Ayyar, 2017-09-12 This book comprehensively chronicles the history of the education policymaking in India from 1947 to 2016 with a focus on the developments after 1964 when the Kothari Commission was constituted The book is informed by the rare insights acquired by the author while making policy at the state national and international levels of governance Another distinguishing feature of this book lies in the attention it pays to the process and politics of policymaking and the larger setting or to use jargon the political and policy environment in which policies were made at different points of time The author brings out a crucial analysis of the Indian educational system against the backdrop of national and global political economic and educational developments Two other distinguishing features of the book are the systematic treatment of the regulation of education and the role of judiciary in the making and implementation of education policies

The National Security Enterprise Roger Z. George,Harvey Rishikof,2017 This second edition of The National Security Enterprise provides practitioners insights into the operation missions and organizational cultures of the principal national security agencies and other significant institutions that shape the US national security decision making process Unlike some textbooks on American foreign policy this book provides analysis from insiders who have worked at the National Security Council the State Department Department of Defense the intelligence community and the other critical entities included in the book The book explains how organizational missions and cultures create the labyrinth in which a coherent national security policy must be fashioned Understanding and appreciating these organizations and their cultures is essential for formulating and implementing coherent policies This second edition includes four new chapters Congress DHS Treasury and USAID and updates to the text throughout It covers the many changes instituted by the Obama administration implications of the government campaign to prosecute leaks and lessons learned from more than a decade of war in Afghanistan and Iraq

Class Size Peter Blatchford,Kam Wing Chan,Maurice Galton,Kwok Chan Lai,John Chi-Kin Lee,2016-04-28 Much debate research and commentary about class sizes in schools is limited because of an exclusive concern with class size and pupil academic attainment and a neglect of classroom processes which might help explain class size effects or lack of them Very little is known about the central question how can teachers make the most of class size changes Much of the commentary on class size effects has focused on Western and English speaking countries but there are promising developments elsewhere particularly the Small Class Teaching initiatives in East Asia in the past decade which have brought new knowledge and practical wisdom to the class size debate This book seeks to move toward a clearer view of what we know and do not know about class size effects and to identify future steps in terms of policy and research There is a huge and exciting potential for international collaboration on knowledge concerning class size effects which can help with research informed policy The book aims to draw out Eastern and Western international contexts which underpin any understanding of the role of class size in school learning The book has chapters by an international team of experts on class size effects including Maurice Galton and John Hattie Chapters are organised into four main sections Socio cultural and political contexts to the class size debate in the East and West Research evidence on class size Class size and classroom processes likely to be related to class size changes Professional development for small class teaching in East Asia

Exploring Education at Postgraduate Level Anne O'Grady, Vanessa Cottle, 2015-09-25 There is a growing demand for educational professionals to develop a more critical understanding of the key and emerging debates in education so that they can better meet the challenges and demands placed upon them Exploring Education at Postgraduate Level represents a range of perspectives from educational experts to academic researchers and highlights the key issues surrounding contemporary education Organised into three parts and drawing on key issues in education theory policy and practice the book considers areas such as SEN evaluating learning ESOL and gender Featuring reflective questions case studies and summaries of core ideas the chapters include Troublesome learning journey Applying educational thinkers to contemporary educational practice Values production through social and emotional learning Policy research In defence ad hocery We are all critically reflective now The politics of critical reflection in higher education and in the work place Developing critical thought about SEN The refuge of relativism Aimed at supporting students on Masters level courses this accessible but critically provocative text is an essential resource for those wishing to develop a more critical understanding of the role purpose and function of educational systems and practices

The Schenley Experiment Jake Oresick, 2017-04-14 The Schenley Experiment is the story of Pittsburgh's first public high school a social incubator in a largely segregated city that was highly even improbably successful throughout its 156 year existence Established in 1855 as Central High School and reorganized in 1916 Schenley High School was a model of innovative public education and an ongoing experiment in diversity Its graduates include Andy Warhol actor Bill Nunn and jazz virtuoso Earl Hines and its prestigious academic program and pensions lured such teachers as future Pulitzer Prize winner Willa Cather The subject of investment as well as destructive neglect the school reflects the history of the city of Pittsburgh and provides a study in both the best and worst of urban public education practices there and across the Rust Belt Integrated decades before Brown v Board of Education Schenley succumbed to default segregation during the white flight of the 1970s it rose again to prominence in the late 1980s when parents camped out in six day long lines to enroll their children in visionary superintendent Richard C Wallace's reinvigorated school Although the historic triangular building was a cornerstone of its North Oakland neighborhood and a showpiece for the city of Pittsburgh officials closed the school in 2008 citing over 50 million in necessary renovations a controversial event that captured national attention Schenley alumnus Jake Oresick tells this story through interviews historical documents and hundreds of first person accounts drawn from a community indelibly tied to the school A memorable important work of local and educational history his book is a case study of desegregation magnet education and the changing nature and legacies of America's oldest public schools
