Incomplete Streets Stephen Zavestoski,Julian Agyeman,2014-08-27 The Complete Streets concept and movement in urban planning and policy has been hailed by many as a revolution that aims to challenge the auto normative paradigm by reversing the broader effects of an urban form shaped by the logic of keeping automobiles moving By enabling safe access for all users Complete Streets promise to make cities more walkable and livable and at the same time more sustainable This book problematizes the Complete Streets concept by suggesting that streets should not be thought of as merely physical spaces but as symbolic and social spaces When important social and symbolic narratives are missing from the discourse and practice of Complete Streets what actually results are incomplete streets The volume questions whether the ways in which

complete streets narratives policies plans and efforts are envisioned and implemented might be systematically reproducing many of the urban spatial and social inequalities and injustices that have characterized cities for the last century or more From critiques of a mobility bias rooted in the neoliberal foundations of the Complete Streets concept to concerns about resulting environmental gentrification the chapters in Incomplete Streets variously call for planning processes that give voice to the historically marginalized and more broadly that approach streets as dynamic fluid and public social places This interdisciplinary book is aimed at students researchers and professionals in the fields of urban geography environmental studies urban planning and policy transportation planning and urban sociology

Chinese Migrants and Africa's Development Doctor Ben Lampert, Doctor May Tan-Mullins, Daphne Chang, Giles Mohan, 2014-06-12 China's recent stepping up of relations with Africa is one of the most significant developments on the African continent for decades For some it promises an end to Africa's dependent aid relationships as the Chinese bring expertise technology and a stronger business focus But for others it is no more than a new form of imperialism This book is the first to systematically study the motivations relationships and impact of this migration It focuses not just on the Chinese migrants but also on the perceptions of and linkages to their African hosts By studying this everyday interaction we get a much richer picture of whether this is South South cooperation as political leaders would have us believe or a more complex relationship that can both compromise and encourage African development
