The Dartmouth Literary Magazine ,1890 Abolitionist Geographies Martha Schoolman,2014-10-01 Traditional narratives of the period leading up to the Civil War are invariably framed in geographical terms The sectional descriptors of the North South and West like the wartime categories of Union Confederacy and border states mean little without reference to a map of the United States In Abolitionist Geographies Martha Schoolman contends that antislavery writers consistently refused those standard terms Through the idiom Schoolman names abolitionist geography these writers instead expressed their dissenting views about the westward extension of slavery the intensification of the internal slave trade and the passage of the Fugitive Slave Law by appealing to other anachronistic partial or entirely fictional north south and east west axes Abolitionism's West for instance rarely reached beyond the Mississippi River but its East looked to Britain for ideological inspiration its North habitually traversed the Canadian border and its South often spanned the geopolitical divide between the United States and the British Caribbean Schoolman traces this geography of dissent through the work of Martin Delany Ralph Waldo Emerson William Wells Brown and Harriet Beecher Stowe among others Her book explores new relationships between New England transcendentalism and the British West Indies African American cosmopolitanism Britain and Haiti sentimental fiction Ohio and Liberia John Brown's Appalachia and circum Caribbean marronage These connections allow us to see clearly for the first time abolitionist literature's explicit and intentional investment in geography as an idiom of political critique by turns liberal and radical practical and utopian
