Global Ecotourism And Local Communities In Rural Areas:

Global Ecotourism and Local Communities in Rural Areas (Penerbit USM) Suriati Ghazali, Morshidi Sirat, 2014-11

This book discusses global ecotourism and its impact on local communities in rural areas. In recent years, an increasing number of international travelers travel all over the world in search for natural resource based settings, tranquility and adventure in remote areas. Tourist expenditures create local demands for traded goods and services, thus creating jobs and generating income for local people. This book explores the impact of global ecotourism on the livelihoods of local people in Kinabalu National Park in Sabah, Malaysia, and the extent to which they incorporate daily economic activities in the ecotourism industry. This book also suggests a model of rural production household livelihood strategies in an ecotourism area which highlights the increase in non agricultural income from both wage work and home based production. The new forms of employment have benefited local women who now have easy access to income. The consequences of world incidents such as the attack on World Trade Center on September 11, 2001, Bali bombing and the outbreak of SARS disease on the arrival of tourists and the livelihood of local people here are also discussed.

Global Ecotourism Policies and Case Studies Michael Lück, Torsten Kirstges, 2003. Annotation: Following a preface by the originator of the term ecotourism, Kirstges, economics and tourism, U of Applied Sciences, Wilhelmshaven, Germany, overviews economic, socio-cultural and ecological issues in sustainable tourism. Lück, recreation and leisure studies, Brock U, Ontario, Canada, discusses whether large scale ecotourism is an oxymoron and the future of responsible tourism. Other contributors propose strategies from case studies of national parks and other sites in Latin America, Africa, Asia and the South Pacific. Co-published as v. 5, nos. 3-4, 2002. Lacks an index. Distributed in the US by UTP Distribution. Annotation c. 2003. Book News, Inc., Portland, OR, booknews.com.

Handbook of Research on Deconstructing Culture and Communication in the Global South Okocha, Desmond Onyemechi, Yousaf, Muhammad, Onobe, Melchizedec J., 2023-07-10. There are inequalities in global knowledge production in communication outlets, cultural practices and governance problems. Under this symbiotic relationship, they reinforce the cultural ideas, values and governance systems operating in the Western countries as an ideal and role model for the Global South countries. Media is regarded as the agent of change for communication and cultural values. Indigenous knowledge production and dissemination is an essential feature to get a better insight into Global South countries. Likewise, de-westernizing and demystifying societal culture and governance issues are pertinent in this age of information. The Handbook of Research on Deconstructing Culture and Communication in the Global South focuses on local production practices, keeping in view the local needs of communication outlets and societal and cultural sensitivities. This Indigenous knowledge would provide deeper and richer insights into the problems and sensitivities of Global South countries. To achieve this end, this book adopts a broader approach encompassing development issues, democratic values, digitalization practices, gender equality issues and more. Covering topics such as biocultural activism, language ideology and religiocentrism, this major reference work is a valuable resource for graduate students sociologists government officials students and educators of higher education librarians development organization leaders religious scholars policymakers researchers and academicians      Global Tourism Sarah M. Lyon,E. Christian Wells,2012-03-15 Global tourism is perhaps the largest scale movement of goods services and people in history Consequently it is a significant catalyst for economic development and sociopolitical change While tourism increasingly accounts for ever greater segments of national economies the consequences of this growth for intercultural interaction are diverse and uncertain The proliferation of tourists also challenges classic theoretical descriptions of just what an economy is What are the commodities being consumed What is the division of labor between producers and clients in creating the value of tourist exchanges How do culture power and history shape these interactions What are the prospects for sustainable tourism How is cultural heritage being shaped by tourists around the world These critical questions inspired this volume in which the contributors explore the connections among economy sustainability heritage and identity that tourism and related processes makes explicit The volume moves beyond the limits of place specific discussions case studies and best practice examples Accordingly it is organized according to three overarching themes exploring dimensions of cultural heritage the multi faceted impacts of tourism on both hosts and guests and the nature of touristic encounters Based on ethnographic and archaeological research conducted in distinct locations the contributors conclusions and theoretical arguments reach far beyond the limits of isolated case studies Together they contribute to a new synthesis for the anthropology of tourism while simultaneously demonstrating how emerging theories of the economics of tourism can lead to the rethinking of traditionally non touristic enterprises from farming to medical occupations

Handbook on Tourism and Conservation Joseph E. Mbaiwa,Oluwatoyin D. Kolawole,Wame L. Hambira,Emmanuel Mogende,2023-11-03 The Handbook on Tourism and Conservation demonstrates the intrinsic nexus between tourism the environment and sustainable natural resources use It applies Ostrom s social ecological systems SESs theory as the analytical framework for reaching a consensus on divergent viewpoints within the context of global environmental change and emerging governance issues      Cluster Development in Selected Asian Countries: Local and regional contexts (Penerbit USM) Suriati Ghazali,Narimah Samat,Sharifah Rohayah Sheikh Dawood,2015 This book consists of chapters that review concepts and theories to empirical evidences and case studies of cluster development in five Asian countries Japan Malaysia Indonesia Thailand and Vietnam It explores the dynamic of clustering in linking its potential and challenges to economic development policy making innovation and social networking in various cluster development projects in different localities and regions For many years clusters have been touted to have significant economic and strategic advantages to develop potential and successful industrial regions This book offers a better understanding of rural challenges in cluster development in different localities of Asian countries which would help in generating new ideas and suggestions in making appropriate recognition to rural agendas in the era of globalization It is suitable as a reference for university and college students in related fields as well as for researchers planners administrators and the society at large

Agroforestry for biodiversity and ecosystem services Donald Mlambo, Yashmita Ulman, Pedro Álvarez-Álvarez, Sangram Bhanudas Chavan, 2025-06-18 Agroforestry farming systems with trees has been practised for millennia across the world but its significance as a relevant part of land use has not been formally recognized As global food demand continues to increase farmers are increasingly relying on intensive use of existing croplands and land clearing resulting in environmental degradation This degradation includes the loss of biodiversity and vital ecosystem services that support human well being However recent discourses suggest that unlocking the potential of agroforestry could offer a solution to this pressing challenge By harnessing agroforestry we have the opportunity to support biodiversity in agricultural landscapes improve agricultural productivity and livelihoods and provide numerous ecosystem services such as nutrient retention erosion control carbon sequestration pollination pest control and fire risk reduction Agroforestry encompasses a wide spectrum of practices including natural vegetation remnants Taungya hedgerows windbreaks home gardens forest farming riparian buffers fallow areas silvopasture and alley cropping By exploring these diverse agroforestry systems worldwide we can better understand the comprehensive range of ecosystem services they offer One of the greatest challenges faced by humanity in the Anthropocene is to reconcile biodiversity conservation with the demands of economic development which often involves converting forestland to other land uses Globally forest conversion and unsustainable management practices in agricultural landscapes are driving the loss of biodiversity and ecosystem services Recent research has advanced our understanding of the potential of agroforestry as a solution to environmental degradation highlighting the need to unlock its potential to achieve both local and global sustainable development goals However scientific evidence on the impacts of agroforestry on biodiversity and ecosystem services is not yet universally available To upscale agroforestry practices it is crucial to gather field based evidence that demonstrates the benefits of biodiversity conservation through agroforestry This evidence will support informed decision making by farmers advisory services and policy making bodies Therefore this issue aims to present information and evidence from various regions of the world shedding light on the diverse services provided by agroforestry and how these systems are being utilized in the current era of climate change and sustainable development
