Discipline Problems Tadashi Dozono, 2024-05-07 Angel a Black tenth grader at a New York City public school self identifies as a nerd and likes to learn But she's troubled that her history classes leave out events like the genocide and dispossession of Indigenous people in the Americas presenting a sugar coated image of the United States that is at odds with her everyday experience The history I learned in school is simpler she says The world I live in is a lot more complex Angel like every student interviewed in Discipline Problems has been identified by teachers as a troublemaker a student whose behavior disrupts classroom norms and interferes with instruction But her critiques of the curriculum she's taught speak to her curiosity and insight crucial foundations for understanding history Like many students who have been marginalized by systemic racism in American schools she exposes the shortcomings of her classrooms academic environments by challenging both the content and the methods of her education All too often these challenges are framed as troublemaking and the students are disciplined for acting out instead of being rewarded for their intellectual engagement Tadashi Dozono a professor of education and former high school social studies teacher takes seriously the often overlooked critiques that students of color who get labeled as troublemakers direct toward their high school history curriculum He reinterprets troublemaking usually cast as a behavioral deficit as an intellectual asset and form of reasoning that challenges the disciplining reason of classrooms where whiteness is valued over the histories and knowledge of people of color Dozono shows how what are traditionally framed as discipline problems can be seen through a different lens as responses to educational practices that marginalize non white students Discipline Problems reveals how students of color seek out alternate avenues for understanding their world and imagines a pedagogy that champions the curiosity intellect and knowledge of marginalized learners Regents Exams and Answers:

iDisrupted Michael Baxter,2015-10-16 iDisrupted changing the human race forever Technology is set to transform the world Its likely impact is both terrifying and incredibly exciting We all need to understand the great changes that are just beginning to re shape the human domain and our daily lives Then we need to draw up plans There are few challenges more important This book is for People who want a job in ten years time Employers who want to hire the right talent for the future Students of business and business professionals who want to understand how technology will transform the commercial world Business leaders and shareholders who want the business they run or own to flourish and not get swept away Investors endeavouring to understand the possible impact of new technology and to place the right bets Policy makers needing to understand the potentially devastating impact of tech economics and tech politics to make the right decision for their country And above all those of us who care about the future of the human race Technologies to watch Robotics internet of things technologies for the promotion of a sharing economy artificial intelligence 3D printing stem cell research genome sequencing energy storage lasers solar power new materials virtual reality nanotechnology brain interfaces to computers and above all else the internet mixed with computers following the evolutionary trajectory described by Moore s Law War and Ideas John Mueller,2013-09-13 This book collects the key essays together with updating notes and commentary of Professor John Mueller on war and the role of ideas and opinions Mueller has maintained that war and peace are in essence merely ideas and that war has waned as the notion that peace is a decidedly good idea has gained currency The first part of the book extends this argument noting that as ideas have spread war is losing out not only in the developed world but now in the developing one and that even civil war is in marked decline It also assesses and critiques theories arguing that this phenomenon is caused by the rising acceptance of democracy and or capitalism The second part argues that the Cold War was at base a clash of ideas that were seen to be threatening not of arms balances domestic systems geography or international structure It also maintains that there has been a considerable tendency to exaggerate security threats currently in particular the one presented by international terrorism and to see them in excessively military terms The third section deals with the role public opinion plays in foreign policy and argues that many earlier conclusions about opinion during the Korean and Vietnam Wars including especially ones concerning the importance of casualties in determining popular support for war apply to more recent military ventures in the Persian Gulf Bosnia Iraq and Afghanistan It also assesses the difficulties leaders and idea entrepreneurs often encounter when they try to manage or manipulate public opinion This book will be of much interest to students of international relations security studies foreign policy and international history Solutions
