

Document 2: In 1992, Pope John Paul II signed an encyclical brought on behalf of the 19th-century Galileo controversy, a controversial physical astronomer of modern-day telescopes and other revolutionary views of history's greatest scientists.

Monday, November 19, 1992, is a historic day for Pope John Paul II, acknowledged in a speech today that the Roman Catholic Church had moved its longstanding Galileo trial 300 years ago. He apologized that the Church could see around the Sun.

The address by the Pope before the Pontifical Academy of Sciences closed a 33-year investigation into the Church's condemnation of Galileo in 1633, one of history's most infamous collisions between faith and science. Galileo was forced to accept the Church's findings to avoid being burned at the stake and spent the remaining eight years of his life under house arrest.

John Paul said the theologians who condemned Galileo did not recognize the formal distinction between the Bible and its interpretation.

This led them unduly to transpose into the realm of the doctrine of the faith, questions which in fact pertained to scientific investigations.

Though the Pope acknowledged that the Church had done Galileo a wrong, he said the 17th-century theologians were working with the knowledge available to them at the time.

Question 3:

Using Document 2, what was Pope John Paul II's main attitude according to this 1992 newspaper article? Pope John Paul II is trying to rectify the past wrongs of the Catholic Church in respect to Galileo's trial and condemnations. He states that Galileo was correct about heliocentricity and recognizes the error of the Catholic Church over 300 years earlier. He attempts to justify the actions of the Church based on the fact that theologians of the 1600s were "working with the knowledge available to them at the time."

Developments in Higher Education: National Strategies and Global Perspectives (Penerbit USM) Shukran Abd.

Rahman, 2013 Developments in Higher Education National Strategies and Global Perspectives brings together a collection of meticulously researched articles providing insights into the changing nature of higher education through internationalisation and its consequent impact on the futures of higher education. These articles are intended for academics, policymakers and researchers in higher education to enhance their understanding, leading ultimately to sustainable human capital development. The book seeks to present a comprehensive discussion on internationalisation as a variable in higher education and hence derive alternative futures of higher education systems. It also suggests a different perspective regarding the appraisal of higher learning institutions and the subsequent influence on policy recommendations. Many of these important aspects are gathered together under topics such as Internationalising Higher Education, A Malaysian Perspective, Rankings and Policy Contradictions, Is It Time to Move Beyond Rankings and Campuses 2060, Four Futures of Higher Education in Four Alternative Futures of Society. This book is recommended to anyone seeking to further enhance their knowledge in higher education, especially in regards to policymaking.

Global Health Disputes and Disparities Dru Bhattacharya, 2012-12-07 Global Health Disputes and Disparities explores inequalities in health around the world, looking particularly at the opportunity for and limitations of international law to promote population health by examining its intersection with human rights, trade and epidemiology and the controversial issues of legal process, religion, access to care and the social context of illness. Using a theoretical framework rooted in international law, this volume draws on a wide range of rich empirical data to assess the challenges facing the field, including international legal treaty interpretation and specific issues related to the application of law in resolving pressing issues in gender, access to care and social determinants of health. In doing so, it illustrates the challenges for implementing rights-based approaches to address health disparities with profound implications for future regulations and policymaking. It includes both interviews with leading scholars as well as a variety of case studies from prominent international forums, including formal claims brought before the Human Rights Council and the Committee on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women, as well as regional and national experiences drawn from disputes in India, Indonesia, South Africa and the USA. This volume is an innovative contribution to the burgeoning fields of global health and human rights and will be of interest to students and researchers in public health, global health law and sociology interested in the social determinants of health and social justice from both theoretical and practical perspectives.

Best Practices in State and Regional Innovation Initiatives National Research Council,Policy and Global Affairs,Board on Science, Technology, and Economic Policy,Committee on Competing in the 21st Century: Best Practice in State and Regional Innovation Initiatives,2013-06-04 Most of the policy discussion about stimulating innovation has focused on the federal level This study focuses on the significant activity at the state level with the goal of improving the public's understanding of key policy strategies and exemplary practices Based on a series of workshops and conferences that brought together policymakers along with leaders of industry and academia in a select number of states the study highlights a rich variety of policy initiatives underway at the state and regional level to foster knowledge based growth and employment Perhaps what distinguishes this effort at the state level is most of all the high degree of pragmatism Operating out of necessity innovation policies at the state level often involve taking advantage of existing resources and recombining them in new ways forging innovative partnerships among universities industry and government organizations growing the skill base and investing in the infrastructure to develop new technologies and new industries Many of these initiatives are being guided by leaders from the private sector and universities The objective of Best Practices in State and Regional Innovation Initiatives Competing in the 21st Century is not to do an empirical review of the inputs and outputs of various state programs Nor is it to evaluate which programs are superior Indeed some of the notable successes such as the Albany nanotechnology cluster represent a leap of leadership investment and sustained commitment that has had remarkable results in an industry that is actively pursued by many countries The study s goal is to illustrate the approaches taken by a variety of highly diverse states as they confront the increasing challenges of global competition for the industries and jobs of today and tomorrow
