Research Handbook on International Environmental Law Malgosia Fitzmaurice,David M. Ong,Panos Merkouris,2010 an impressive volume and the editors have put together a high quality collection Research Handbook on International Environmental Law ought to be an invaluable reference source for both teachers and students of international environmental law in the years to come Web Journal of Current Legal Issues This wide ranging and comprehensive Handbook examines recent developments in international environmental law IEL and the crossover effects of this expansion on other areas of international law such as trade law and the law of the sea The expert contributors offer analyses of foundational issues in IEL such as responsibility for environmental damage sustainable development and the precautionary principle alongside studies in topical subject areas including marine protection and the law of international watercourses This Research Handbook offers an in depth analysis of IEL both as a field of law in its own right and as part of the wider system of international law It gives a comprehensive view of IEL in all its forms and complexity With thorough examination of specific environmental regimes and compliance mechanisms this Handbook will be an indispensable resource for legal scholars students and practitioners alike

Climate action and legal foundations

,2024-06-06 Research Paper undergraduate from the year 2019 in the subject Environmental Sciences Sustainability language English abstract This paper analyses the existing laws related climate change and how they support climate action all over the world Emerging trend of climate change litigation has also caught world s attention which is being categorized as the ultimate climate action The primary methodology tool used is a study of journey taken by the world to accept climate change as a concern and study of laws implemented in furtherance of this concern and conclude whether it is enough or not The instant paper contains seven chapters The first Chapters outlines the gradual shift from climate change to climate action Second Chapter of the paper discusses the international law related climate change including climate action initiatives taken under these laws Climate change litigation is discussed in the third chapter Fourth and the fifth chapter of the paper outline the Indian perspective and climate change litigation in India respectively The last chapter elaborates the concept of circular economy Climate change and its impact are not limited to a particular region or a particular group of people Some places may be more vulnerable to its effects than other places but each and every place on earth is being affected by climate change A global threat in form of global warming and climate change has been looming over our head for the past century or so Climate change has been addressed and tackled by various international organizations and treaties These treaties have formed the basis of International Environmental Law which is still developing and requires expanding its scope The main problem with International Environmental Law is its lack of implementation and binding force The objective of this research paper is to find out whether the obligatory and binding nature of international law is enough to handle the increasing impacts of climate change or not Several countries have included environmental law in their existing laws or devised and implemented new laws that under international obligation or good conscience aiming to preserve and protect the environment Therefore the research is whether existing legal regime at the national and international level is enough to reverse the damages done to the environment and prevent further damage Response to climate change has taken a shape of climate action over the years with people taking active participation in the initiatives taken across the world and binding nature

Research Handbook on Climate Change Law and Loss & Damage Doelle, Meinhard,Seck, Sara L.,2021-11-17 This timely Research Handbook offers an insightful review of how legal systems whether domestic international or transnational can and should adjust to fairly and effectively support loss and damage L D claims in climate change law International contributors guide readers through a detailed assessment of the history and current state of L D provisions under the UN climate regime and consider the opportunities to fund L D claims both within and outside the UN climate system The United Nations World Water Development Report - N° 3 - 2009 - Climate Change, Water Vulnerability and Possible Remedies for the Middle East UNESCO, Energy Research Abstracts ,1993 Adapting cities for transformative climate resilience: Lessons from the field Amrita G. Daniere,Diane Archer,2023-06-29 Towards a Warmer World Veronika Meduna,2015-11-09 The year 2014 was the hottest on record since we've begun collecting global temperature measurements in 1880 Even at its midway point 2015 was already promising to take over this dubious record As new thresholds are breached acclaimed Radio New Zealand science writer Veronika Meduna explores our future in a warmer world Beginning with lessons from our ancient geological past this BWB Text draws on current observations and increasingly sophisticated climate models to describe possible end of century scenarios for New Zealand Distorted ecosystems extreme weather new landscapes and adapted foods are just some of the likely changes that amount to a radically different future for our country Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) Third Assessment Report United States.
