I for Isobel Amy Witting, 2014-01-29 Winner of the Barbara Ramsden Prize 1990 This was life no sooner had you built yourself your little raft and felt secure than it came to pieces under you and you were swimming again Born into a world without welcome Isobel observes it as warily as an alien trying to pass for a native Her collection of imaginary friends includes the Virgin Mary and Sherlock Holmes Later she meets Byron W H Auden and T S Eliot Isobel is not so much at ease with the flesh and blood people she meets and least of all with herself until a lucky encounter and a little detective work reveal her identity and her true situation in life I for Isobel a modern day Australian classic was followed by Isobel on the Way to the Corner Shop winner of the Age Book of the Year Award Amy Witting was born in Annandale an inner suburb of Sydney in 1918 She attended Sydney University then taught French and English in state schools Beginning late in life she published six novels including The Visit I for Isobel Isobel on the Way to the Corner Shop and Maria's War two collections of short stories two books of verse Travel Diary and Beauty is the Straw and her Collected Poems When we come to write the history of Australian writing in the twentieth century the strange case of Amy Witting will be there to haunt us Here is a writer who not only has great gifts the kind of expert and mimetic gifts that would impel instant recognition from someone who admired a fine lined American naturalist like William Maxwell but a realist who has an effortless immediacy and a compelling sense of drama that should have ensured the widest kind of appeal the sort of appeal that Helen Garner could command in her fiction writing days And yet this woman who published in the New Yorker and commanded the respect of Kenneth Slessor was scarcely encouraged during the long grey sleep of Australian fiction publishing It wasn't until the publication of I for Isobel that Witting gained a national profile Peter Craven Australia's Amy Witting is comparable to Jean Rhys but she has more starch or vinegar The effect is bracing New Yorker Isobel is instinctively searching for a lost part of her substance the very memory of which has been obliterated Prompted by her inexplicable sense of loss she goes on her way deviating baffled yet rejecting substitutes To call the ending happy is to say both too much and too little Was the lost part also searching for her Amy Witting's admirers will find this novel as distinctive and compelling as her stories and her poetry Jessica Anderson Witting lays bare with surgical precision the dynamics of families sibling students in coffee shops office coterie One sometimes feels positively winded with unsettling insights There is something relentless almost unnerving in her anatomising of foibles fears obsessions private shame the nature of loneliness the nature of panic Janette Turner Hospital A beautifully but unobtrusively honed style a marvellous ear for dialogue a generous understanding of the complex waywardness of men and women Andrew Riemer Terrific incredibly wise When I finished it I went straight back to the first page Cate Kennedy

Happy Valley: Text

Classics Patrick White, 2012-08-22 Patrick White's magnificent debut novel first published 1939 long out of print and now a Text Classic Based on Patrick White's own experiences in the early 1930s as a jackaroo at Bolero near Adaminaby in south eastern New South Wales Happy Valley paints a portrait of a community in a desolate landscape It is a jagged and restless study of small town and country life White was twenty seven when Happy Valley was published by George C Harrop in London This mesmerising first novel gives us a prolonged glimpse of literary genius in the making It won the Australian Literature Society Gold Medal in 1941 but White did not allow the novel to be republished in English in his lifetime Its appearance now in the Text Classics series is a major literary event Happy Valley is the missing piece in the extraordinary jigsaw of White's work Patrick White was born in England in 1912 and taken to Australia where his father owned a sheep farm when he was six months old He was educated in England and served in the RAF before returning to Australia after the war He was the first Australian to win the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1973 He died in 1990 Peter Craven is one of Australia's best known literary critics He was founding editor of Scrips Quarterly Essay and the Best of anthologies Patrick White was a prophet and from his sublime mountaintop he sent down lightning bolts on our callow heads Some of these bolts are vivid in Happy Valley his first novel published in 1939 and now reissued The novel stands up well in the high company of its later brethren It prefigures the greatness to come and is a more adventurously wrought than many of our own age White is a mesmerising narrator whose prose illuminates the most ordinary object and event in new and gripping ways Thomas Keneally Guardian Happy Valley will be a joy for any fan Here we see a sensibility not so much forming as finding and owning itself Weekend Australian This is a remarkable first novel already discernible as the performance of a master whose apprentice work cannot be glimpsed We are fortunate indeed that Text has reopened the front door in the house of Patrick White's fiction Canberra Times My favourite Australian novel was by a newcomer well a newcomer in 1939 A sardonic grotesque oddly moving ensemble of piece about thwarted lives in a dismal country town Happy Valley presages the later Patrick White but is also refreshingly original and feels as contemporary as the latest bestseller Jane Sullivan Australian Book Review Happy Valley is a harsh and unsparing picture of a prematurely exhausting life denying Australia It's a world full of violence adultery and financial ruin in which nothing will ever change White's main focus as in his great later novels is the thwarted spiritual yearning of his characters But this is also a superb anatomy of Australian society Metro NZ

The Suburbs of Hell Randolph Stow, 2015-08-26 His eyes are on the one eye of the rifle His mouth splits open his brown beard He throws up a hand palm outward in an unwilling futile gesture to ward off death A killer is hounding the seaside town of Old Tornwich Residents are gripped by fear and suspicion and the finger of blame is pointed in all directions But the bodies keep falling and the crimes remain unsolved the culprit at large No mere whodunnit The Suburbs of Hell its story inspired by a real life serial killer is a profoundly disturbing psychological drama with a devastating conclusion the final work of one of Australia's greatest writers Julian Randolph Mick Stow was born in Geraldton Western Australia in 1935 He attended local schools before boarding at Guildford Grammar in Perth where the renowned author Kenneth Mackenzie had been a student. While at university he sent his poems to a British publisher. The resulting collection Act One won the Australian Literature Society's Gold Medal in 1957 as did the prolific young writer's third novel To the Islands the following year. To the Islands also won the 1958 Miles Franklin Literary Award. Stow reworked the novel for a second edition almost twenty five years later but never allowed its two predecessors to be republished. He worked briefly as an anthropologist's assistant in New Guinea, an experience that subsequently informed Visitants, one of three masterful late novels. Then he fell seriously ill and returned to Australia. In the 1960s he lectured at universities in Australia and England and lived in America on a Harkness fellowship. He published his second collection of verse Outrider, the novel Tourmaline on which critical opinion was divided, and his most popular fiction The Merry Go Round in the Sea and Midnite. For years afterwards Stow produced mainly poetry, libretti and reviews. In 1969 he settled permanently in England, first in Suffolk then in Essex where he moved in 1981. He received the 1979 Patrick White Award. Randolph Stow died in 2010 aged seventy four. A private man, a prodigiously gifted yet intermittently silent author, he has been hailed as the least visible figure of that great twentieth century triumvirate of Australian novelists whose other members are Patrick White and Christina Stead. Praise for The Suburbs of Hell. Both a traditional murder mystery and a meditation on the random depredations of death. Australian Book Review. Poetic accuracy is only one aspect of a rich talent. Mr Stow has a narrative gift as well. He is in fact a real novelist. Observer. A cleverly crafted whodunit. Stow is an example of the high calibre of Australian writers of yesterday. Many of these authors have been forgotten or perhaps overlooked. It's pleasing to see that Text Publishing released this edition in 2015 and continue to foster some of Australia's buried talents by re-publishing under Text Classics. For fans of the psychological thriller and those readers who enjoy a foray into a metaphorical tale, Stow delivers the goods. Salty Popcorn. Selected Stories Amy Witting, 2017-05-01. Amy Witting was a master of the short story, the genre in which she felt most at home. Her subjects: childhood and school, marriage and loneliness, the cruelty of men and women are rendered in a crisp understated style, at once compassionate and unsentimental. This new selection of twenty pieces from across five decades includes the acclaimed novella length The Survivors and the final appearance of Isobel Callaghan from I for Isobel. Amy Witting was born in Annandale, an inner suburb of Sydney in 1918. She attended Sydney University, then taught French and English in state schools. Beginning late in life, she published six novels including The Visit, I for Isobel, Isobel on the Way to the Corner Shop and Maria's War, two collections of short stories, two books of verse Travel Diary and Beauty Is the Straw and her Collected Poems. She had numerous poems and short stories published in magazines such as Quadrant and the New Yorker. Witting was awarded the 1993 Patrick White Prize. Isobel on the Way to the Corner Shop won the Age Book of the Year Award. Amy Witting died in 2001. Brilliant distillations tinged with latent tenderness. New York Times. To the Islands Randolph Stow, 2015-08-26.
