Lanterns On The Levee Recollections Of A Planters Son:

Lanterns on the Levee William Alexander Percy, 2006-10-01 Born and raised in Greenville Mississippi within the shelter of old traditions aristocratic in the best sense William Alexander Percy in his lifetime 1885 1942 was brought face to face with the convulsions of a changing world Lanterns on the Levee is his memorial to the South of his youth and young manhood In describing life in the Mississippi Delta Percy bridges the interval between the semifederal South of the 1800s and the anxious South of the early 1940s The rare qualities of this classic memoir lie not in what Will Percy did in his life although his life was exciting and varied but rather in the intimate honest and soul probing record of how he brought himself to contemplate unflinchingly a new and unstable era The 1973 introduction by Walker Percy Will's nephew and adopted son recalls the strong character and easy grace of the most extraordinary man I have ever known Lanterns on the levee William A.

Percy, 1959 Lanterns on the Levee; Recollections of a Planter's Son, with an Introduction William Alexander

Percy, 1973 Lives of Mississippi Authors, 1817-1967 James B. Lloyd, 1981 Tell About the South Fred

Hobson, 1983-10-01 In this insight studded work that established him as the premier interpreter of southern literary culture Fred Hobson explores the southern urge toward self examination the seeming compulsion of southern writers to discuss their region some defending it others damning it He focuses on fourteen practitioners of the southern genre of regional confession who wrote between 1850 and 1970 showing how they in many cases linking their own destinies with the fate of the South produced deeply felt impassioned books that sought to explain the region to outsiders as well as to fellow southerners and perhaps most of all to themselves Before Jim Crow Jane Dailey, 2009-11-30 Long before the Montgomery bus boycott ushered in the modern civil rights movement black and white southerners struggled to forge interracial democracy in America This innovative book examines the most successful interracial coalition in the nineteenth century South Virginia's Readjuster Party and uncovers a surprising degree of fluidity in postemancipation southern politics Melding social cultural and political history Jane Dailey chronicles the Readjusters efforts to foster political cooperation across the color line She demonstrates that the power of racial rhetoric and the divisiveness of racial politics derived from the everyday experiences of individual Virginians from their local encounters on the sidewalk before the magistrate's bench in the schoolroom In the process she reveals the power of black and white southerners to both create and resist new systems of racial discrimination The story of the Readjusters shows how hard white southerners had to work to establish racial domination after emancipation and how passionately black southerners fought each and every infringement of their rights as Americans

Wyatt-Brown, 1996-10-31 Although the novels of Walker Percy represent some of the most prominent work in 20th century Southern fiction the Percy family itself has a history that is arguably as compelling as anything he could have created Behind Percy's prose lurks a legacy of wealth literary accomplishment political leadership depression and suicide that spans two centuries In this compelling biography Wyatt Brown skilfully combines intensive research and telling insights to produce the unforgettable story of this gifted family 48 halftones A Disturbing and Alien Memory Douglas L. Mitchell, 2008-12-01 In the late nineteenth century as the study of history shifted from the domain of letters into the social sciences novelists in the North and the West generally turned away from writing history Many southern novelists and poets however continued to undertake historical writing as an extension of their art form What made southern literary figures differ from their northern and western counterparts In A Disturbing and Alien Memory Douglas L. Mitchell addresses this intriguing question by tracing a line of southern writers from the early nineteenth century to the mid twentieth finding that an obsessive need to defend the South and the oft noted rage to explain drove some creative writers to continue to make forays into history and biography in an effort to enter a more public sphere where they could more decisively influence interpretations of the past In the Romantic history of the nineteenth century Mitchell explains men of letters saw themselves as keepers of memory whose renderings of the past could help shape the future of the nation He explores the historical writing of William Gilmore Simms to trace the failure of Romantic nationalism in the growing split between North and South then turns to Thomas Nelson Page's effort to resurrect the South as a spiritual nation with a redeemed history after the Civil War Mitchell juxtaposes their work with that of William Wells Brown the pioneering African American historian and novelist who used the authority of history to write blacks into the American story Moving into the twentieth century Mitchell analyzes the historical component of the Southern Agrarian project focusing on the tension between modernist aesthetics and polemical aims in Allen Tate's Civil War biographies He then traces a path toward a viable historical vision Robert Penn Warren's recovery of a tragic understanding and the creation of a compelling historical art in the work of Shelby Foote Throughout Mitchell examines the peculiar dilemma of southern writers the changing nature of history and its relation to the realm of letters and the question of public authority shedding light on several neglected texts in the process including Simms's The Sack and Destruction of Columbia S C Brown's The Negro in the American Rebellion Tate's Jefferson Davis and Warren's John Brown Offering a new perspective on a perennial debate in southern letters A Disturbing and Alien Memory provides a critical framework for a neglected genre in the southern literary canon
