Rapid and seemingly accelerating changes in the economies of developed nations are having a proportional effect on the skill sets required of workers in many new jobs. Work environments are often technology heavy while problems are frequently ill defined and tackled by multidisciplinary teams. This book contains insights based on research conducted as part of a major international project supported by Cisco, Intel, and Microsoft. It faces these new working environments head on, delineating new ways of thinking about 21st century skills and including operational definitions of those skills. The authors focus too on fresh approaches to educational assessment and present methodological and technological solutions to the barriers that hinder ICT based assessments of these skills, whether in large scale surveys or classrooms. Equally committed to defining its terms and providing practical solutions and including international perspectives and comparative evaluations of assessment methodology and policy, this
