Sage urged PM to order a harsher lockdown

Johnson overruled scientists who called for measures tougher than three-tier system

By Emma Duncanson
 and Catherine Rayner

Prime Minister Boris Johnson overruled government scientists who urged a much harsher lockdown to bring the coronavirus outbreak under control, it has emerged. The Prime Minister's decision to reject the advice of the Scientific Advisory Group for the Government (SAGE) and to implement a three-tier system of restrictions instead, has been described as a "major turning point" in the government's response to the pandemic.

Mr Johnson said the new system would simplify the measures and confer "greater legitimacy" on the government. "I am aware, clearly, that some of the advice from SAGE was to go to a much more stringent lockdown, but I think the government has to take a balanced view of the advice and the impact on the economy," he said.
