Parliament. House of Commons, 1877 Contradictions of Employee Involvement in Organizational Change George M. Kandathil, 2015-07-22 This monograph narrates the decade long struggle of workers unions and management in transforming one of the largest ailing family owned jute businesses in India into a sustainable worker owned and governed cooperative It focuses on the variation in the three groups involvement in the transformation It begins with the employees struggles in taking over the business deserted by its owners to save their jobs The study analyzes the tensions between the three groups in creating and maintaining democratic governance that would sustain the initial leap in employee participation in the transformation The analysis reveals contradictions at multiple levels starting with the unexpected outcome of information sharing with workers increased information sharing by management resulting in decreased employee involvement The study explains this paradox by showing that for workers information has a symbolic nature and information sharing is a signal of their trustworthiness in the assessment of those who are privy to the information This means involvement is contingent upon the feeling that the information that workers consider crucial is being shared with them However what workers consider crucial and thus a symbol of trust changes over time as the nature and breadth of their involvement evolves Thus worker expectation as well as management and union expectation of information sharing evolves However the evolution has the potential to create a mismatch between the two expectations that might lead to contradictions in employee involvement While for management information sharing is an instrument in eliciting involvement and thus management's expectation of information sharing goes through an instrumental loop for employees information sharing is a matter of trust and thus their expectation of information sharing goes through an institutional trust based loop To sustain high employee involvement the organization should ideally institutionalize the trust based loop and avoid engaging with the instrumental loop The author proposes a collaborative approach to organizational transformation that will help deal with the contradictions more effectively sustaining employee involvement in the transformation The author also discusses the implications of these propositions for academic scholarship and organizational practices and situates them in the ongoing attempts to reform Industrial Disputes Act in India The Electrical Review ,1917 Catalog Yale University. Race and Education in North Carolina John E. Batchelor,2015-12-16 The separation of white and black schools remained largely unquestioned and unchallenged in North Carolina for the first half of the twentieth century yet by the end of the 1970s the Tar Heel State operated the most thoroughly desegregated school system in the nation In Race and Education in North Carolina John E Batchelor a former North Carolina school superintendent offers a robust analysis of this sea change and the initiatives that comprised the gradual and often reluctant desegregation of the state's public schools In a state known for relative racial moderation North Carolina government officials generally steered clear of fiery rhetorical rejections of Brown v Board of Education in contrast to the position of leaders in most other parts of the South Instead they played for time staving off influential legislators who wanted to close public schools and provide vouchers to support segregated private schools instituting policies that would admit a few black students into white schools and continuing to sanction segregation throughout most of the public education system. Litigation primarily initiated by the NAACP and the Civil Rights Act of 1964 created stronger mandates for progress and forced government officials to accelerate the pace of desegregation. Batchelor sheds light on the way local school districts pursued this goal while community leaders, school board members, administrators and teachers struggled to balance new policy demands with deeply entrenched racial prejudice and widespread support for continued segregation. Drawing from case law, newspapers, interviews with policy makers, civil rights leaders and attorneys involved in school desegregation as well as previously unused archival material, Race and Education in North Carolina presents a richly textured history of the legal and political factors that informed, obstructed and finally cleared the way for desegregation in the North Carolina public education system.

Green Signals Jairam Ramesh, 2015-03-05 The debate on whether to privilege economic growth over ecological security is a perennial one. Environmental considerations must be at the heart of economic growth, especially for a country of 1.25 billion people destined to add another 400 million by the middle of the century. Green Signals chronicles the 1991 moment in India's environmental decision making, telling the story of how for the first time the doors of the environment ministry were opened to voices hitherto unheard into the policy making process. It details efforts to change the way environment is viewed both by proponents of environmental security and those who prize economic growth at all costs. Told from the perspective of a pivotal decision maker, the book addresses the challenges involved in trying to ensure economic growth with ecological security. It takes us through India's coming of age in the global environmental and climate change community to take on a leadership role that is progressive, proactive and steeped in national interest. Using speaking orders on high profile projects, notes and letters to the Prime Minister, ministerial colleagues, chief ministers and others, Jairam Ramesh gives an insight into the debates, struggles, challenges and obstacles to bringing environmental considerations into the mainstream of political and economic decision making. This collection reveals the story of the author's attempt at the highest levels of governance to introduce effective decision making, a transparent and accountable administration and to make environmental concerns an essential component of a nation's quest to accelerate economic growth and end the scourge of poverty and deprivation.

Senate documents, 1885 Pupil, Teacher and Family Voice in Educational Institutions Janice Wearmouth, Andrew Goodwyn, 2019-03-14 Taking a novel approach to the concept of voice within education systems, this insightful text considers the extent to which the values, opinions, beliefs and perspectives of pupils, families, teachers and members of senior management are heard in educational settings and explores what can be learned from integrating their views and opinions in decision making processes. Pupil, Teacher and Family Voice in Educational Institutions traces the historical and legal developments which have heralded an increased appreciation of individuals' perspectives in key decision making processes. Chapters consider how various parties can be encouraged to voice their opinions and beliefs and address the issues and challenges which may face institutions as they seek to create an atmosphere of open and active consultation and engagement Drawing on evidence based research case studies and personal accounts chapters reflect upon the concept of voice in diverse settings and acknowledge the sometimes significant divergence between the intended and actual extent to which such opinions beliefs and perspectives are reflected in day to day practice Offering in depth exploration of the concept of voice and the benefits implications challenges and practicalities associated with it this text will be of interest to future and in service teachers educational researchers and policy makers
