All people must face the inevitable process of growing older, which sometimes leads to feelings of helplessness and apathy and a loss of enthusiasm about life. In both Passage I, an excerpt from a short story, and Passage II, a poem, characters must face the process of aging and the feelings that come with it. In Passage I, the narrator expresses the disappointment and cynicism that he has developed as he has grown older. He discusses adversities which he has faced such as "the perfidy of friends and the wickedness of the flesh, lost frontiers... the death of dreams, solitude, pain..." He mourns lost youth stating, "every loss is a tear in the heart's tender flesh," and ~~at the end of the~~ ~~passage~~ ~~with~~ The dog in Passage II has also lost the enthusiasm and excitement of youth. He is shown to be quite apathetic. No longer as playful as a young puppy, when his owner attempts to "toss his ragged stuffed lion," the dog will "seem to want to say 'you don't have to play with me, I'm fine'" and then mosey over, and take the toy back to his spot. In each of these passages demonstrates the loss of enthusiasm and the disappointment that often come with aging.

Approaches to Inclusive English Classrooms Kate Mastruserio Reynolds, 2015-03-02. This book provides educators with an accessible guide to best practices concerning content-based instruction (CBI) models and their use in English learner inclusive classrooms. The author effectively bridges the gap between theory and practice with a critical analysis of practical examples and diverse strategies for the inclusion of English learners into K-12 general education courses. The book also raises controversial questions regarding who is qualified to teach English learners and who is responsible for doing so, looking at the difficulties faced by both general educators and ESL teachers in Inclusive Classrooms. By providing a lens through which both ESL teachers and general educators are able to analyze, compare, and contrast a range of widely employed CBI methods, this book allows teachers to make informed decisions in their EL program development and work with English learners in K-12 schools.

Educating the New Southern Woman David Gold, Catherine L. Hobbs, 2013-12-19. From the end of Reconstruction through World War II, a network of public colleges for white women flourished throughout the South. Founded primarily as vocational colleges to educate women of modest economic means for life in the emerging new South, these schools soon transformed themselves into comprehensive liberal arts institutions, proving so popular that they became among the largest women's colleges in the nation. In this illuminating volume, David Gold and Catherine L. Hobbs examine rhetorical education at all eight of these colleges, providing a better understanding of not only how women learned to read, write, and speak in American colleges but also how they used their education in their lives beyond college. With a collective enrollment and impact rivaling that of the Seven Sisters, the schools examined in this study—Mississippi State College for Women (1884), Georgia State College for Women (1889), North Carolina College for Women (1891), Winthrop College in South Carolina (1891), Alabama College for Women (1896), Texas State College for Women (1901), Florida State College for Women (1905), and Oklahoma College for Women (1908)—served as important centers of women's education in their states, together educating over a hundred thousand students before World War II and contributing to an emerging professional class of women in the South. After tracing the establishment and evolution of these institutions, Gold and Hobbs explore education in speech arts and public speaking at the colleges and discuss writing instruction, setting faculty and departmental goals and methods against larger institutional, professional, and cultural contexts. In addition to covering the various ways the public women's colleges prepared women to succeed in available occupations, the authors also consider how women's education in rhetoric and writing affected their career choices, the role of race at these schools, and the legacy of public women's colleges in relation to the history of women's education and contemporary challenges in the teaching of rhetoric and writing. The experiences of students and educators at these institutions speak to important conversations among scholars in rhetoric education women s studies and history By examining these previously unexplored but important institutional sites Educating the New Southern Woman provides a richer and more complex history of women s rhetorical education and experiences      Transforming Writing Instruction in the Digital Age Thomas DeVere Wolsey, Dana L.
