comprehensive education from preschool through high school one that will train him or her to read to think to understand to be well rounded and curious about learning Veteran home educators Susan Wise Bauer and Jessie Wise outline the classical pattern of education called the trivium which organizes learning around the maturing capacity of the child's mind and comprises three stages the elementary school grammar stage when the building blocks of information are absorbed through memorization and rules the middle school logic stage in which the student begins to think more analytically and the high school rhetoric stage where the student learns to write and speak with force and originality Using this theory as your model you'll be able to instruct your child whether full time or as a supplement to classroom education in all levels of reading writing history geography mathematics science foreign languages rhetoric logic art and music regardless of your own aptitude in those subjects Thousands of parents and teachers have already used the detailed book lists and methods described in The Well Trained Mind to create a truly superior education for the children in their care This extensively revised fourth edition contains completely updated curricula and book lists links to an entirely new set of online resources new material on teaching children with learning challenges cutting edge math and sciences recommendations answers to common questions about home education and advice on practical matters such as standardized testing working with your local school board designing a high school program preparing transcripts and applying to colleges You do have control over what and how your child learns The Well Trained Mind will give you the tools you'll need to teach your child with confidence and success

The Calcutta Gazette, 1908 Report Bengal (India). Agriculture and Industries Dept, 1907 The Scientific Attitude Frederick Grinnell, 1992-03-06 THE SCIENTIFIC ATTITUDE presents a systematic account of the cognitive and social features of science Written by an experimental biologist actively engaged in research the work is unique in its attempt to understand science in terms of day to day practice The book goes beyond the traditional description of science that focuses on method and logic to characterize the scientific attitude as a way of looking at the world Professor Grinnell uses examples from biomedical research to describe science at three interdependent levels At the first level the individual scientist makes observations formulates hypotheses and does experiments The scientist's thought style determines what can be seen and what it will appear to mean At the second level scientists participate in social institutions such as graduate programs research groups journal editorial boards and grant review panels Each of these institutions tries to promote its own distinctive collective thought style Finally at the third level scientists participate in the world of everyday life beyond science a world that continuously influences and is influenced by the activities and discoveries of science
