Building Economics: Theory and Practice Rosalie Ruegg,Harold Marshall,2013-11-11 We no longer build buildings like we used to nor do we pay for them in the same way Buildings today are no longer only shelter but are also life support systems communication terminals data manufacturing centers and much more Buildings are incredibly expensive tools that must be constantly adjusted to function efficiently The economics of building has become as complex as its design When buildings were shelter they lasted longer than their builders The average gothic master mason lived 35 or 40 years Cathedrals took 3 or 4 hundred years to build Cost estimates were verified by great great grandchildren of the original designer Today creative economics has become as important as creative design and creative building The client brings builder contractor architect and facilities manager to account in their life time The cost of building can therefore no longer be left to chance or act of god Solutions are no longer as ingeniously simple as those proposed by a Florentine builder early in the 15th century He proposed to center the dome of S Maria del Fiore on a great mound of earth mixed with pennies When the job was done street urchins would carry away the dirt in their search for the pennies This was a serious suggestion offered by an early construction manager before Brunelleschi solved the problem more sensibly The Electric Railway in Theory and Practice Oscar Terry Crosby, Louis Bell, 1892 Peak Load and Capacity Pricing C. Harris, 2015-04-09 Peak Load and Capacity Pricing lays out clear pricing strategies for understanding peak load and capacity pricing structures further cementing electricity's role as an asset class with fixed and variable costs Electricity Prices in a Competitive Environment United States. Bramble, Santosh Panda, 2008-03-31 This book provides a comprehensive overview of the organizational models of distance and online learning from an international perspective and from the point of view of economic planning costing and management decision making The book points to directions for the further research and development in this area and will promote further understanding Economic Analysis of the Firm: Theory and Practice Ivory L. Lyons, Manuel Zymelman, 1966 Harnessing Renewable Energy in Electric Power Systems Boaz Moselle, Jorge Padilla, Richard Schmalensee, 2010-09-23 Reflecting its reliance on fossil fuels the electric power industry produces the majority of the world's greenhouse gas emissions The need for a revolution in the industry becomes further apparent given that decarbonization means an increasing electrification of other sectors of the economy in particular through a switch from gasoline to electric vehicles Of the options for producing electric power without significant greenhouse gas emissions renewable energy is most attractive to policymakers as it promises increased national self reliance on energy supplies and the creation of new industries and jobs without the safety and political concerns of nuclear power or the unproven technology of carbon capture and storage Drawing on both economic theory and the experiences of the United States and EU member states Harnessing Renewable Energy addresses the key questions surrounding renewable energy policies How appropriate is the focus on renewable power as a primary tool for reducing greenhouse gas emissions If renewable energy is given specific support what form should that support take What are the implications for power markets if renewable generation is widely adopted Thorough and well evidenced this book will be of interest to a broad range of policymakers the electric power industry and economists who study energy and environmental issues

Energy Production and Management in the 21st Century III S. Syngellakis,E. Magaril,2019-01-29 Containing papers from the 3rd International Conference on Energy Production and Management The Quest for Sustainable Energy this book discusses the future creation and use of energy resources It also examines the issue of converting new sustainable sources of energy into useful forms while finding efficient methods of storage and distribution An important objective of the book is discussing ways in which more efficient use can be made of conventional as well as new energy sources This relates to savings in energy consumption reduction of energy losses as well as the implementation of smart devices and the design of intelligent distribution networks This volume provides a comparison of conventional energy sources particularly hydrocarbons with a number of other ways of producing energy emphasising new technological developments based on renewable resources such as solar hydro wind and geothermal In many cases the challenges lie as much with production of such renewable energy at an acceptable cost including damage to the environment as with integration of those resources into the existing infrastructure The changes required to progress from an economy based mainly on hydrocarbons to one taking advantage of sustainable energy resources are massive and require considerable scientific research as well as the development of advanced engineering systems Such progress demands close collaboration between different disciplines in order to arrive at optimum solutions

Accounting for Common Costs Murray C. Wells,2006 During the 1960s and 1970s a remarkable series of books was produced by academic staff in the field of accounting at the University of Sydney It was a period when academic research was largely analytical rather than empirically based For the most part the interests of academics at Sydney were largely directed at questioning the status quo either in the way accounting or auditing was practiced or in the conventional wisdom expressed in textbooks of the time The Sydney Accounting Classics series reflects the diversity of interests of the Sydney school at that time It also recognises the tremendous impact of the foundation professor of accounting R J Chambers This reprint series ensures that the ideas developed during this period remain available to new generations of scholars and researchers The Sydney Accounting Classics series is an initiative of the Accounting Foundation in association with Sydney

University Press Accounting for Common Costs The editor of the 1978 edition called this a seminal work in one of the most difficult allocation problems in accounting Accounting for Common Costs contains a comprehensive historical study of the allocation of costs in accounting practice as well as discussion of points of difference and the need to promote economic efficiency
