2.1 Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow.

Peat lands are special wetlands that play a very important role in ecology. A peat land, of approximately 6 000 years old, near Mufuang is almost destroyed because of excessive extraction of water from the nearby Molofo river. The water is extracted for human consumption.

Peat lands like the one near Malmgren is exceptional and play an important role in storing water as well as preventing climate changes.

Dr Phil-Louis Gronding said that carbon that is 'held' or 'stored' by peat lands combats climate change because it decreases the amount of carbon in the atmosphere.

Peat lands trap about one third of the world's carbon. Approximately 50% of wetlands worldwide are peat lands. However in South Africa about 10% of the wetlands are peat lands.

Gundling explained that peat lands can hold about 1 000 times its own mass in water. This replenishes the water table and is the source that keeps streams flowing. The "sponge effect" of the peat also makes it possible to store water that is then released during the seasons.

Dr Grondling said that it might be too late to restore the peat land near Malling but it might be possible to restore some parts of it if more water is supplied to this peat land.

The result of this destruction is depletion of the water table. The habitat of numerous fish and bird species that lived in this area has also been destroyed.

Hodgson, 2015-07-21 The brain and immune system are involved in an intricate network of bidirectional communication This relationship is vital for optimal physiological and psychological development and functioning but can also result in unwanted outcomes In particular this interaction plays an important role in cognition mood and behaviour Neuroinflammation is known to contribute to neurological and affective disorders including impaired learning and memory depressive anxiety and schizoaffective symptoms as well as pain The development of these conditions often occurs on the backdrop of pre existing physical illnesses which give rise to increased activation of the immune system such as cancer obesity infection and autoimmune disorders Similarly psychological states can alter regulation of the immune system This has been most extensively studied in the context of stress and immune function Understanding the underlying mechanisms that lead to the onset of inflammation induced neuropathology and stress induced immune suppression will contribute to the development of novel and effective treatment strategies for both the disease and its neurological side effects In this research topic we explored the relationship between the immune system and the brain throughout life We include both original research and review papers from animal clinical and molecular perspectives
