Literary Translation Ida Klitgård, 2006 This volume of Angles on the English Speaking World discusses the intriguing inter relatedness between the concepts and phenomena of world literature and translation The term worlding presented by str ur Eysteinnsson in this collection is coined by Sarah Lawell in her book Reading World Literature 1994 where it denotes the reader's pleasurable reading of the meeting of worlds in a literary translation i e the meeting of the different cultural environments embodied in a translation from one language into another Through such reading the reader in fact participates in creating true world literature This is a somewhat unorthodox conception of world literature conventionally defined as great literature shelved in a majestic canonical library In the opening article sparking off the theme of this collection Eysteinnsson asks Which text does the concept of world literature refer to It can hardly allude exclusively to the original which the majority of the work's readers may never get to know On the other hand it hardly refers to the various translations as seen apart from the original It seems to have a crucial bearing on the border between the two and on the very idea that the work merits the move across this linguistic and cultural border to reside in more than two languages Picking up on this question at issue all the essays in this collection throw light on the problematic mechanics of cultural encounters when reading the world in literary translation i e in the texts themselves as well as in the ways in which they have become institutionalised as world literature

Family Matters Marisel C. Moreno, 2012-08-29 Adopting a comparative and multidisciplinary approach to Puerto Rican literature Marisel Moreno juxtaposes narratives by insular and U S Puerto Rican women authors in order to examine their convergences and divergences By showing how these writers use the trope of family to question the tenets of racial and social harmony an idealized past and patriarchal authority that sustain the foundational myth of la gran familia she argues that this metaphor constitutes an overlooked literary contact zone between narratives from both sides Moreno proposes the recognition of a transinsular corpus to reflect the increasingly transnational character of the Puerto Rican population and addresses the need to broaden the literary canon in order to include the diaspora Drawing on the fields of historiography cultural studies and gender studies the author defies the tendency to examine these literary bodies independently of one another and therefore aims to present a more nuanced and holistic vision reconsider contemporary Spain through its varied encounters with migrants. It follows the stages of the migrant's own journey beginning outside Spanish territory continuing across the border either at the barbed wire fences of Ceuta and Melilla or the waters of the Atlantic or the Strait of Gibraltar and then considers what happens to migrants after they arrive and settle in Spain. Each chapter analyzes one of these stages in order to illustrate the complexity of contemporary Spanish identity. This examination of Spanish culture shows how Spain is evolving into a new space of imagination one that can no longer be defined without the migrant a space in which there is no unified identity but rather a new self understanding is being born. Vega Durán both places Spain in a larger European context and draws attention to some of the features that from a comparative perspective make the Spanish case interesting and often unique. She argues that Spain cannot be understood today outside the Transatlantic and Mediterranean spaces both real and imaginary where Spaniards and migrants meet.

Emigrant Dreams Immigrant Borders offers a timely study of present day Spain and makes an original contribution to the vibrant debates about multiculturalism and nation formation that are taking place.
